MRS. J.D. LITTLE WILLS UNIVERSITY $750,000 LIBRARY

Site on Athens Campus Described in Bequest; Structure To Be Built After Sister's Death.

A trust fund, estimated by executors at approximately $750,000, for the erection and maintenance of a memorial library on the University of Georgia campus, is created in the will of the late Mrs. John Dozier Little, which was filed yesterday with the ordinary of Lee county, at Leesburg.

Mrs. Little, wife of the late prominent Atlanta lawyer, died recently in Carlsbad, Germany, her funeral being held in Atlanta last Sunday. She was a legal resident of Lee county, where she owned a large plantation.

Her two surviving sisters, Mrs. Nettie D. Wortham, of Macon, and Mrs. Clara D. Badgley, of Middleburg, N. Y., are to have the income from the residue of Mrs. Little's large estate as long as they live, she directed.

Upon their deaths, the executors and trustees are instructed to build a red brick, colonial library building on the site of the home of the chancellors on the University of Georgia campus.

Funds to keep the library "maintained in proper condition and supplied with a complete, adequate and constantly kept-up stock of books" are also provided.

Marion Smith, Atlanta attorney; R. C. Dunlap, of Macon, and Giles C. Hardeman, of Macon, were named as both executors and trustees of the estate by Mrs. Little.

Cares for Dogs.

A number of special bequests to friends and servants were set out in the will. Mrs. Little taking particular pains to see that her numerous dogs are well taken care of. She provided funds from the estate to pay for their food.

She directed that her palatial home on Habersham road and her Lee county plantation be sold as soon as practicable by the executors and pointed out that the Atlanta residence at 2908 Habersham road "cost me $50,000 and I think it should bring that amount unfurnished."

"This library is a cherished idea of mine and my late husband's," Mrs. Little wrote in her will, which was made January 30, 1939, with a codicil added following the recent death of her sister, Mrs. Lillian D. Stevens, of Macon.

"Upon the death of the survivor of my sisters, I direct that my trustees shall liquidate the corpus of my trust estate as speedily as is consistent with the best interest of my trust estate and the proceeds of said liquidation shall be used by my trustees for the erection and equipment of a memorial library at the University of Georgia, Athens, Ga., to be called the Lillian Dunlap Little Memorial," her will read.

"Step aside," an attendant told 20-year-old Mary Jane Goodwin, of Greensboro, N. C., as she bought a ticket for a tour of Radio City while visiting New York. "You're No. 3,000,000," she was told by Clay Morgan, assistant to the vice president of the National Broadcasting Company, as he gave Mary Jane a radio, a dinner invitation, a chance to broadcast and a clipper ticket to Bermuda.

ATLANTA LEADS IN AUTO SAFETY

Record of 80 Deathless Traffic Days Is Best Among Cities of Size.

A telegraphic canvass conducted by The Constitution showed early this morning that Atlanta was far in the lead in the number of days elapsed without a fatal traffic accident, among cities of its relative population class, since the last traffic fatality occurred here May 27.

Atlanta's record is not the longest for the year—Knoxville, Tenn., having passed 108 deathless days and Providence, R. I., 98—but in the present period, which might be termed a "heat" of a year-long "race," the title rested here. In the table given below each of the cities was "spotted" one day at mid-night to conform to the additional deathless day achieved by Atlanta—the telegrams having been received before midnight.

Identical telegrams were sent chiefs of police of the cities involved asking specifically the date of the latest fatal traffic accident.

Ten responded, showing that the following were the number of days which had passed, in the cities specified, since there was a death.

ALMAND RETAINS APPOINTEE POWER IN COUNTY CLASH

Hailey's Move To Strip Commission Chairman of Authority Defeated by Chastain, Ragsdale.

Fulton county commissioners yesterday refused to strip Commission Chairman Ed L. Almand of committee appointive power. It was the most acrimonious session in recent months.

By a vote of three to two, the commission turned down a proposal by Commissioner Gloor Hailey to abolish all committees and hold weekly meetings of the entire body to transact county business, supplanting the present monthly sessions.

The action was taken after Hailey had pleaded for "harmony" and "equal responsibility," and had asserted it would eliminate criticisms that the county now "is operating under a headless administration."

Adams Backs Hailey.

Those voting "aye" were Dr. Charles R. Adams and Hailey, while Commissioners Almand, Troy G. Chastain and J. A. Ragsdale cast negative votes.

The vote came after Commissioner Adams said:

"The chairmanship of the finance committee is a meaningless title. I would like to know more about public works and parks (at present under the direction of committees headed respectively by Ragsdale and Chastain), and have some voice about them. It would be an education to all. We all know there is a certain amount of gravy in each committee chairmanship."

In sponsoring the resolution, Hailey contended that he did so for "efficiency and to remove the stigma that the county is operating under a headless administration."

"One-Man Rule."

Attacking the proposal, Chastain said:

"If we are to abolish all committees, we should just have a one-man government (referring to proposals that a county-manager form of government be substituted for the present commission form). I don't care myself. They can establish a one-man government and legislate me out of office when they want to, and I can still make a living."

The Hailey measure sought to designate department and institution heads directly responsible to the commission as a whole.

In presenting his resolution, which was debated for more than an hour, and brought exchanges between Dr. Adams and Almand and Chastain, Hailey said he had the advice of several leading citizens.

"Increase Ignorance."

Chastain opened fire on it, but admitted no chairman could know all about a department pointed out that the department heads are responsible for the conduct of their departments and added that the Hailey resolution would not correct the ignorance of commission, but would multiply it five times, because five would be responsible for each department, and therefore "could not give any one of them sufficient study to do a creditable job."

Hailey said some department

F.D.R. Thanksgiving Plan To Make College Right in Being Wrong?

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 15.—(P)—Registrar John E. Fellows, of Tulsa University, may have been right in being wrong.

Now President Roosevelt plans to advance Thanksgiving a week to November 23.

FACTORY LOCATES IN LAWRENCEVILLE

Between 500 and 600 Are To Be Given Employment With $500,000 Pay Roll.

Purchase by the General Shoe Corporation, of Nashville, Tenn., of the buildings at Lawrenceville formerly occupied by the Windville Manufacturing Company was announced here yesterday by W. H. Barnwell, industrial agent of the Georgia Power Company.

The transaction also included the "mill village" which is to be completely remodeled in connection with other improvements. New machinery is to be installed and the plant is expected to be in operation as a shoe factory by November 1.

It is estimated that between 500 and 600 persons will be employed in the factory and that the annual pay roll will be approximately $500,000 a year. The Windville company, a cotton manufacturing company, has been shut down for some time.

Closing of the deal followed several months of negotiations originally promoted by Barnwell. He recently accompanied a delegation of Lawrenceville citizens to Nashville after which officials of the company inspected the site and decided on the purchase.

Boys Inhale Gasoline Fumes as New 'Game'

DENVER, Aug. 15.—(P)—Marvin Caner was more alarmed than proud when he learned his son, Kenneth, 4, had won a new game he and his playmates had contrived.

The game was to see who could inhale gasoline fumes from Caner's auto the longest.

Kenneth had passed out but was all right after an hour's oxygen treatment.

Small Black Widow Kayses Giant Beetle

The battle of a beetle and a black widow spider—to the death—took place yesterday afternoon against a filling station wall, and the lady emerged victorious! It was nature in the raw as the female spider, perpetually dressed in the customary black of widow's weeds (except for that flaming red spot she wears, perhaps to denote the manner of her husband's passing) crawled out of her home in a crevice to do battle with the beetle 10 times her size and well armored at that.

Just how this historic fight began will remain shrouded in mystery, because no one saw it. But maybe it started because the lady was hungry.

Yesterday afternoon watchers at her nest under an outside window sill at a filling station near Emory University saw her drop a silken cord of silvery beauty which she used like an aerialist in a circus to keep herself out of reach of the beetle's heavy, swinging claws, which could have crushed her if ever she came within their grasp. Time and again she slashed his unprotected vitals and in 10 minutes she had him on the ropes. In 15 he was dead.

Then began lady's great job of lifting the huge, unwieldy beetle some three feet to her residence between the bricks.

Brother Beetle's legs were still kicking as she started. But Smart Lady couldn't wait for sundown to stop that. She hitched herself together, pulled the switch of her inside manufacturing machinery and spun a little more web. Many times she did this and each time she went back up she hoisted the beetle's body a little higher off the ground.

She moved Brother Beetle more than a foot in 15 minutes, never tiring, never varying her form except when The Constitution's photographer, Pete Roton, got in her way.

Unlike most ladies, this one retired to her apartment in a huff when he flashed his camera and wouldn't come out for nearly 15 minutes.

Finally the lady took the beetle into her parlor just like in the rhyme.

OMINOUS SILENCE BLANKET'S BERLIN; TEMPO SPEEDED

Host of Developments Indicate Immediate Action With Events Grimly Paralleling Munich Days.

BULLETIN.

WARSAW, Aug. 16.—

(Wednesday) — (AP) — The Polish telegraph agency reported that German authorities today closed all border traffic along that part of their Silesian frontier facing the Polish district of Rybnik.

The agency added that all telephone communication between this German district and Poland had been cut off.

No reason for this action was given although the impression in Polish circles is that it is a move to provide secrecy for German fortifications or troop movements in this area.

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—(AP)

A host of signs in Berlin tonight pointed to an imminent, almost immediate development in the grave issue of Danzig and Pomorz (the Polish corridor).

In government quarters, which normally are willing to give a hint of events to come, there was an ominous silence.

But there continued the steady press campaign and in the rapid tempo of events of the past ten days it was a seeming parallel to the days of Austrian annexation, Munich, the Czecho-Slovak partition, the protectorate over Czech Bohemia and Moravia and the absorption of Memel.

Pruss Blames Powers.

Late editions of Berlin papers generally reflected a stiffening attitude toward the Danzig issue.

"Attitude of the western powers blocks every solution," said a headline of Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter.

The official news agency carried more reports of alleged abuse of German Nationals in Poland.

Officials and Nazi party members insist that a Danzig solution will be a bloodless one.

This may mean the German leaders are convinced that Poland, like Czecho-Slovakia, will yield and that the German army

Mysterious Communications Exchanged by Big Powers

They Concern Reported Compromise Said To Have Been Submitted by Hitler to League Commissioner for Danzig; All Guard Secret.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(P)—The governments of Europe were engaged in an exchange of mysterious communications tonight as continued rumors of various "peace" plans kept the world guessing.

The communications concerned the conversation between Adolf Hitler and Doctor Carl Berchtesgaden, League of Nations high commissioner for Danzig, at Berchtesgaden Friday night.

By tonight at least six nations were acquainted with the general tenor of the talk—reported to have included discussion of a compromise plan for settling the Danzig problem—but they carefully guarded their secret.

These nations were Germany, Italy, Great Britain, France, Poland and Sweden. Officials of Danzig also were familiar with the developments.

Poland was suspicious of Berchtesgaden's activity, fearing his trip to Berchtesgaden a Nazi "propaganda move."

League circles pointed out the similarity of the role he was playing and the role Lord Runciman played a year ago when he went to Prague to negotiate with the Czecho-Slovak government and the Sudeten German minority.

WORKERS ON WPA IN SOUTH TO GET INCREASE IN PAY

National Wage Average Will Be Raised $2.50 a Month for 2,194,911, Effective September 1.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP) Commissioner F. C. Harrington announced today a new schedule of monthly security wages for WPA project workers which, he said, would raise the national average about $2.50 a month for approximately 2,194,911 persons. This, he added, would mean that the old average of $53 a month would be stepped up to about $55.50. The new wages become effective September 1.

In general, Harrington said, the new schedule would mean a substantial increase in WPA wages in southern states. In northern states present scales will be retained with some exceptions, which include comparatively minor reductions in most instances.

Revision of the WPA wage schedule was required by the new relief act, which provides that the rates in different sections shall vary no more than does the cost of living.

Although the act provides that no substantial change shall be made in the national average WPA wage, Harrington said the $2.50 a month increase was considered permissible under terms of the statute. WPA officials said the act did not define the word "substantial."

As an example of the changes, the commissioner said that the new rate for skilled labor in New York city would be $89.70 compared with an old rate of $92.30, whereas in Birmingham, Ala., the new rate would be $79.30, compared with the old $71.50.

SALVATION ARMY ELECTS AMERICAN

Parker Heads High Council, Meeting to Name General.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Commissioner E. J. Parker, of the United States, was elected president of the high council of the Salvation Army which met behind locked doors today to begin balloting for a successor to retiring General Evangeline Booth.

Parker is the national secretary of the United States area.

Two other Americans, Commissioner Alexander Damon, of the eastern territory of the United States, and Commissioner Benjamin Orames, of the western territory, were prominently mentioned as prospective candidates to succeed General Booth.

A two-thirds majority is required and the open race was complicated by a move to take the administration from sole control of the general and vest it in a cabinet of the high council.

The legislator said he had been misquoted in an article appearing in Tuesday's Macon Telegraph in which it was reported he favored a sales tax if the state's program was to be continued.

DOUGHBOYS STOP REGULARS' TANKS

Citizen-Soldiers Drive 'Invaders' Back in Mock Defense of Capital.

MANASSAS, Va., Aug. 15.—(AP) Citizen soldiers of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, defending the capital in mock warfare, struck on a 13-mile front today and doggedly drove a force of cavalry, tanks and truck-mounted infantry into the mountains of northern Virginia.

The successful maneuver that set a mechanized regular army division back on its heels eased the stings of yesterday's raids, which carried the invaders almost to the command posts of the defending 28th and 29th national guard divisions.

To prevent the routing of their cavalry and infantry, the invaders' commander time and again sent tanks roaring into the advancing forces, to delay them and permit a reforming of the lines. But the doughboys stopped them. They blocked roads with trucks and everything that could be thrown into their paths and then blasted at them with heavy machine guns and light cannon.

"WOEFUL" STATUS OF ARMY LAMENTED PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 15. (AP)—Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum, taking what he termed a "realistic approach" to the nation's problem of self-defense, tonight described as "woefully short in manpower and weapons" the force assembled here for the first army field maneuvers.

Addressing approximately 3,000 officers on the parade ground of Plattsburg barracks, General Drum said: "Some advisers have advocated an assumption that the units comprising the first army be as stated in our paper plans and at war strength—armed and equipped with the modern armament we some day hope to secure. 'I have resisted this approach as unrealistic as presenting a false picture and thereby deceiving you and our fellow citizens.'"

General Drum declared that the first army, as it has taken the field, "is not in fact an army."

Personnel of the first army, General Drum said, totals only 23 per cent of its "paper" strength. There exists a 67 per cent deficiency in machine guns, a shortage of 83 per cent in trucks and 57 per cent in automatic rifles.

To these shortcomings General Drum added the inexperience of both officers and men in field exercises involving large forces.

Celebrate Record.

To celebrate the city's remarkable safety achievement, merchants were requested yesterday by the Citizens' Traffic Committee to display flags at all available points and generally to aid in building a civic spirit which would insist upon safe traffic conduct both by motorists and pedestrians.

"Our committee wants the flags to fly, and to fly as long as we have a deathless day," it was declared by Malcolm Fleming, chairman.

"It is a splendid record, and we must not rest for a moment on our laurels."

The plan outlined by Captain Jack Malcom, head of the police traffic bureau: "We are asking all merchants to do just this: 'When you reach your place of business each morning, and the traffic fatality thermometer' in The Constitution shows there has been another deathless day, then dig down, bring out your flags and set them blowing in the breeze, just as if it were the Fourth of July. For it is truly a cause for celebration."

To be sure that display of the National Emblem was in keeping with flag etiquette, Captain Malcom yesterday consulted authorities and was assured that such an occasion fully justified use of Old Glory.

Safety Meetings Urged. Owners of fleets of trucks and other conveyances also were urged by Captain Malcom to hold safety meetings immediately and impress anew upon their drivers the need to operate safely at all times and under all conditions.

The menace of bright lights was emphasized.

Progress being made in solving the traffic problem was hailed by the Bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce, it pointed out: "At the beginning of 1938 Atlanta had the worst traffic fatality record, but one, of any city in the nation."

Women Lawyers Meet To Deal With Weighty Issues

Before the meeting—they talk of strictly feminine things. But in the meeting—it's serious business for these officers of the Georgia Association of the National Association of Women Lawyers. Left to right are Gertrude Harris, second vice president; Kate McDougald, president, and Daphne Robert, first vice president at the monthly meeting last night.

Georgia Portias Dispose of Gossip, Statecraft at Monthly Meeting

Women Lawyers Hear Plans To Make Divorces Uniform and To Get Equal Rights Through Constitutional Amendment.

Outside, in the mezzanine lobby of the hotel, the little group of well-dressed women sat around and talked. Conversation ran the usual feminine scale—clothes, reducing weight, men, how to clean Venetian blinds, somebody's recent operation, the latest book, postcards, vacation, smoking, etc., etc.

Inside, gathered around the long table in one of the banquet rooms of the hotel, words took another tack. Conversation sailed placidly along in serious vein. Discussed were topics of interest to women—but far from trivial.

This was the monthly meeting last night of the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers, organized in Atlanta 11 years ago, for the serious purposes of generating good-will among women members of the legal profession and bettering the general welfare of the women in the profession.

Presiding was Kate McDougald, president, and eagerly heard were Lillian Harclerode and Eunice Johnson, delegates to the national convention last month in San Francisco, present to report what went on at the big meeting.

The delegates reported principally on legislation sponsored by the national group, uniform divorce laws and the equal rights amendment to the federal constitution.

It was reported the national group adopted a resolution that efforts toward uniform divorce laws should be made through a constitutional amendment, and that further efforts should be made to get congress to pass the equal rights amendment, which would eliminate "all discriminatory legislation."

The local group also heard cheering news—that the Iota Tau Tau, national legal sorority, will hold its annual convention in Atlanta next summer. This meeting will bring 150 to 200 delegates from all parts of the country.

SAVANT TESTIFIES AT BRIDGES HEARING

Stanford Professor Reads 15,000-Word Text on Marxism.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—A Stanford University professor read a 15,000-word statement on the "content and significance of Marxist philosophy" at Harry Bridges' deportation hearing today after a Portland, Ore., police captain testified his department had discussed adultery charges against the maritime labor leader.

Captain John J. Keegan, questioned about expenses the Portland police incurred after the Bridges investigation, recalled a hotel room conversation with Aaron Sapiro, an "adverse" witness against Bridges.

"It was whether charges should be filed against Harry Bridges for adultery," Captain Keegan began, when Defense Attorney Richard Gladstein leaped to his feet. "What's that got to do with questions I was asking about expenses?" Gladstein asked.

In reply to a question why so much money had been spent in efforts to deport Bridges to Australia, Keegan said: "We were interested in Harry Bridges for other reasons than deportation."

Keegan refused to say what other reasons, "because I am still investigating Mr. Harry Bridges regardless of his Communist activities."

Naughty and Nothing were the names of two young natives arrested for creating a public disturbance in Bainville, South Africa, and the judge fined them for being "nothing but naughty."

Sullivan Warns Second Offense To Mean 30-Day Suspension, Third 90-Day, Fourth Revocation.

"Road hogs" will be penalized with automatic suspension of their drivers licenses beginning today, Safety Commissioner Lon E. Sullivan warned yesterday after he instructed state patrolmen to keep a watchful eye and revoke licenses of those who persisted in driving on the wrong side of the road.

Effective immediately, Sullivan said, troopers would stop to warn drivers and at the same time clip their licenses. A second clip for the same offense would mean an automatic 30-day suspension; a third, a 90-day suspension, and a fourth would result in revocation, he said.

Speed To Be Penalized. Speed, which continues in the top brackets for causing accidents, also will result in license suspension.

Sullivan described the yellow or black line down the center of the highway as the "life line" in driving. Although it is an imaginary barrier, he said it frequently means the difference in "life and death, health or complete disaster, a good vehicle or a jumbled mass of wreckage."

Meanwhile, Attorney General Ellis Arnall ruled yesterday that not even a good word from the judge who revoked your driver's license can avail to restore the license until six months have elapsed.

Cites Accidents. Sullivan said his records showed that 39 per cent of the accidents in the first half of the year involved passing on a curve, hill or straight-of-way with insufficient clearance. In 29 per cent of the accident investigations, he added, one or more cars in each case was on the wrong side of the road.

As a further emphasis on safety, Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, recommended that every school system in the state send one or more representatives to the conference of traffic safety to be held in Atlanta, August 21-25, at the University of Georgia Extension building, 162 Luckie street, N. W. The conference is sponsored by the Georgia Department of Public Safety.

SECOND SQUALUS LIFT SET FOR TOMORROW

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Readjustment of pontoons tonight delayed for at least a day the navy's plan to give the submarine Squalus its second lift and tow to shallower water tomorrow.

Salvagers worked long after dark to complete the readjustment in the hope they might carry out their program Thursday.

Meanwhile, at the navy yard, the submarine Seawolf, similar to the Squalus in design, was launched.

PATENT PROTECTION

The Federal Constitution itself provided means by which inventor could be assured of protection for their ideas.

And the flood of new inventions has never ceased from the earliest days of the Republic down to now. Not only is it not true that "everything has been invented," but the stream of inventive thought is increasing instead of diminishing.

The average inventor, however, is concerned not only with patenting his idea, but with disposing of it to a manufacturer or capitalist at a fair price.

BILL TO PENSION GEORGIA FARMERS MAY BE REVIVED

Extra Session Will Get Brinson Bill for $30 Monthly If Call Covers Farm Security Matters.

A bill to pension farmers will be revived in the special session of the Georgia legislature if the call covers either farm or social security legislation, Senator Mos Brinson, of Summerville, asserted yesterday.

His measure, which passed the senate in the regular session last spring, is a proposed amendment to the state constitution. An enabling act would be submitted if the people ratified the plan.

"Certainly the farmers, who pay property taxes for the duration of their service on the soil, should have a pension in their old age," the youthful senator said.

One plan envisioned by Brinson was to pay $30 monthly pension to all Georgia farmers who had made their living from the soil for 30 years. Earlier retirement would be permitted with scaled down pensions in direct proportion to service.

Let Refugees Build Alaska To Benefit U.S., Ickes Urges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes suggested today that European industries "broken up or diverted by current waves of intolerance" be "transplanted to Alaska for the benefit of the United States."

His proposal accompanied publication of a report prepared under the direction of Undersecretary Harry Slattery, which recommended that bars against foreign immigration into the territory be let down on the ground that present restrictions had a "disastrous effect" upon the development and defense of Alaska.

Ickes said he was convinced from a study of the Slattery report that "artisans now fleeing Europe" could "play a key role in creating in Alaska various industries which until now have not been developed in the United States."

He added the report was "an invitation to private capital to cooperate in the development of Alaska."

"The Slattery report shows that Alaska has the resources of water power, timber, minerals, fish and fur upon which a sound Alaskan economy can be based," Ickes continued in a statement to the press.

New industries suggested by the secretary included production of various types of fur, leather, paper and wood products "which we now import from European and Asiatic sources."

EXPORTS OF COTTON LOWEST IN 60 YEARS

August 1 Carry-Over Reported Largest Ever Recorded by U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Government statisticians painted a gloomy picture of the cotton surplus problem today, disclosing that exports during the marketing season which ended July 31 were the lowest in 60 years and that the carry-over of cotton on August 1 was the largest ever recorded by the government.

The Commerce Department reported that cotton exports from August of last year through July this year, aggregated 3,327,000 bales valued at $170,682,000. This was a decline of 40.6 per cent in quantity and 44.3 per cent in value from the previous season.

At the same time the census reported a carry-over of 13,032,611 running bales, compared with 11,533,439 bales a year ago and a ten-year average from 1929-38 of 6,744,800 bales.

FATS, OIL PRICE SPUR STUDIED BY GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture has three proposals in mind for improving the prices of fats and oil, Secretary Wallace said today.

Under consideration are:

1. Diversion of some fats and oils from table use to the manufacture of soap.

2. Purchase of lard and other pork products for distribution to the needy.

3. Increasing exports by financing of "sound credit transactions" through the Export-Import Bank.

Wallace rejected the subsidy idea.

NAVY LAUNCHES SUB SIMILAR TO SQUALUS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 15.—(AP)—The navy's newest submarine, the Seawolf, similar in design to the ill-fated Squalus, was launched privately today.

The Seawolf is 298 feet long, with a beam of 26 feet, 11 inches, and a normal displacement of 1,450 tons. She is scheduled to be completed next April.

Boy, 14, Runs Away 3d Time Since Spring

John Silvey, 14-year-old son of Mrs. J. J. Luck, of 532 Ninth street, N. W., ran away from home last night for the third time this summer, his mother reported to police.

His previous expeditions, she said, took him to Gadsden, Ala., and St. Louis, Mo. Both times he was found and sent back.

This time he took with him $67 which he got from his mother's pocketbook, the police said his mother reported.

GRAND JURY INDICTS MIAMI GIRL'S KILLER

Score Parole System That Permitted Jefferson's Release.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Charles Jefferson, self-styled talent scout and theatrical promoter, was accused by a Palm Beach county grand jury today of kidnapping, ravishing and murdering a Miami high school girl, for which the state will seek to exact the death penalty.

The grand jurors sharply criticized the parole system that permitted Jefferson to be released on probation from a sentence for criminal assault in Pennsylvania and from a two-year federal sentence in Denver.

The formal indictment was returned after the jurors heard a story from Jean Bolton, Miami night club singer and high school girl.

Presumably she told the jury how she and ill-fated Frances Dunn, 17, were lured away to a rendezvous that meant violent death for Miss Dunn.

The jury asked the quickest legal trial for Jefferson—listed in the indictment under several aliases. Officials said he probably would be tried late in September.

FISH FEARS WAR IN NEAR FUTURE

Greatest Crisis Since September, Says Legislator.

OSLO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, said tonight "we are drifting toward war" and "if something is going to be done to prevent war, it must be done immediately."

The congressman, member of the house foreign affairs committee, arrived for the interparliamentary union congress here in an airplane lent by Germany's foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, whom he visited yesterday. He is chairman of the United States delegation of 25.

"My impression after having seen leading men in England, France and Germany is that the international situation is more grave now than at any time since September of last year," said Fish.

Domestically, the mob sought revenge for the injury of a Chinese last Thursday in a clash with British sailors during another demonstration.

All World's in Hard Training for 'Der Tag'

A war-conscious world looks to its armies and finds them good. Above is a scene from the German internal propaganda film, "The West Wall," showing troops marching into one of the 22,000 bunkers on the great Siegfried line, while . . .

... the camera turns to our own United States where military leaders of many nations watch as Uncle Sam tests his defenses, of the eastern seaboard. Photo shows light tanks ready for the huge Plattsborg war games. Returning to Europe . . .

... where Italy "plays" at defending northern part of nation against invasion, we see a new weapon. To repel the imaginary enemy, 11 Duce brought into play a new anti-aircraft gun, shown above. The games centered near Turin. In Poland . . .

... it's no "game." These are Polish troops marching on the Danzig frontier while Poland concentrated troops near the border as a precautionary measure. Poland is fearful of a move by Hitler and so is . . .

... Britain, whose recently created reserve fleet, assembled from docked ships, is shown as it was reviewed by King George. The monarch made a 14-mile journey around the entire 133 warships massed in Weymouth bay, Dorset.

MORE SCHOOLS URGED TO SAVE DEMOCRACY

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, today urged ample public school funds as one means of preserving democracy.

Speaking before the opening session of the three-day Congress on Education for Democracy, Dr. Graham said the annual $2,000,000,000 public school tax bill was a primary source of tension between the public schools and some private interests.

HUNGARIAN PRESS SLAPS NAZI ORDER

BUDAPEST, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The newspaper Magyar Nemzet asserted today that Hungarian exports would be routed through Poland instead of Germany unless the German railways rescind an increase in freight rates.

The newspaper estimated a new German order requiring shippers to pay in the currency of the countries to which their goods are consigned boosted rates 50 per cent. Hungarian trade with Holland and England would therefore be adversely affected.

Because the annexation of Ruthenia last March gave Hungary a common frontier with Poland, Magyar Nemzet asserted, it would be easy to redirect exports to the Polish port of Gdynia.

Tension Mounts in Danzig; Military Life Dominates City

DANZIG, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Increased tempo of militarization in the Free City and uncertainty caused by Danzig "Fuehrer" Forster's failure to bring a definite message from Hitler last week has noticeably increased tension and bewilderment here.

There is practically no effort made now to conceal the military nature of the "protective police force," relieved by many observers to number 12,000 men.

Black-uniformed SS men carrying rifles and field packs can be seen nightly riding out of the city in army trucks.

A squad of young "policemen" in green uniforms marched through the center of the city today pulling three mounted machine guns.

Airplanes are observed with increasing frequency over the city. There are more army trucks and more field cars driven through the streets than in previous weeks.

There are concrete impediments on some border roads and concrete placements on many culverts for cutting off roads which lead to the border. The pontoon bridge over the Vistula river, which will provide better communication from Germany's East Prussia, will be opened to traffic Saturday.

Hotels are crowded to capacity and an increase in the number of military bearing—like those seen in Berlin—is apparent on the streets and in the cafes.

Russia Boosts Duties On Japanese Ships

JAPAN TO CONFINE ACTS TO FAR EAST

Will Stay Out of European Affairs at Present.

TOKYO, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Holding the door open for a possible deeper entry into European affairs at some future time, reliable sources said tonight that Japan had determined to confine her present major activities to the Far East.

The decision, it was reported, was reached August 8 after an exhaustive discussion of recent international developments by Premier Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma and his ministers of war, navy, finance and foreign affairs. The development left Premier Hiranuma on top in the latest controversy.

The most serious policy problem has been the question of a military alliance with Italy and Germany. The three powers already have agreed to exchange information to combat international communism.

The story, verily of which of course is not determinable by a foreigner, that German soldiers, now massed all along the German-Polish and protectorate-Polish frontier as well as in East Prussia, are in possession of little booklets telling them how to ask for necessities in Polish.

These specific symptoms are reinforced by the striking parallel with Czechoslovakia last summer.

First the Demands. Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germans, on April 24, 1938, at Karlsbad made his famous minimum demands. The Czech government's rejection of them led to the September crisis and to Munich.

Adolf Hitler revealed in the reichstag on April 28, 1939, that he had made an "offer" to the Polish government. Its rejection led to the present situation.

As the Sudeten issue became more acute, the German press began to be filled with adverse accounts of every description of the Czechs. "Hussite murderers and pillagers" was a favorite epithet.

For several weeks now the German press has been filled with similar accounts about the "illiterate" Poles.

And Then the Terror. The next stage in the anti-Czech campaign was the daily publication of acts of terror alleged to have been committed by Czechs upon innocent Germans.

This stage with reference to Poland has been reached. No sooner had the "heat been turned on" Czechoslovakia last summer than the German papers began to publish stirring accounts of thousands of German refugees fleeing across the border to the fatherland.

Similar accounts of refugees from Poland have been given prominent space since the beginning of this week.

When war seemed possible last September, Prime Minister Chamberlain, of Great Britain, Premier Daladier and Mussolini, of France and Italy, came to Hitler at Munich for the famous Munich accord.

That's where the parallel seems to end. At least there were no signs discernible in the Wilhelmstrasse today of plans for an immediate four-power conference.

JAPANESE SLAPPING REPORT SENT TO U. S.

Consul Dissatisfied With Story; American Woman, 59, Hit by Sentry.

TIENSIN, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The United States consulate was reported to have sent Washington a full report today on the slapping of a 59-year-old American widow by a Japanese sentry after finding a Japanese explanation unsatisfactory.

It was understood the report followed upon a visit by Japanese Vice Consul N. Nishida to the consulate to attempt adjustment of the incident. It involved Mrs. Mary Frances Richard, who was slapped and detained for an hour yesterday when she sought to enter the Japanese-blockaded French concession.

The Japanese consulate said the differences arose because of language difficulties and Mrs. Richard's alleged "arrogance" when she was called upon to produce identification papers.

Mrs. Richard, a native of San Francisco who has been a resident of China for 34 years, said the slapping occurred when she tried to enter the concession with vegetables and fruit "prohibited" in the blockaded area.

She was carrying the produce into the foreign area for use in her small canning business which she operates to supplement her income as a teacher of English.

Her account follows:

The sentry issued her identification card issued by the American consulate and ordered her into a shed where another Japanese ordered her to dump her baskets.

She was about to comply when she saw a Chinese in front of her removing his trousers while undergoing search by the Japanese. Thereupon she turned and dumped the vegetables and fruit in another place.

This apparently angered the sentry, an argument ensued and the Japanese slapped her hard with his open palm.

BARNESVILLE FIRE DESTROYS CHURCH

First Methodist Building Burns in Rain; Loss Estimated $50,000.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Aug. 15. Loss of $50,000 was sustained today when the First Methodist church of Barnesville was destroyed by fire. The blaze originated from an electric switch, according to firemen who investigated the blaze.

For two hours, part of the time in a downpour of rain, firemen and scores of citizens fought valiantly to save the historic structure, located on Main street.

Five pianos, hymn books and chairs from the annex were saved but the building, containing a handsome pipe organ and priceless stained glass memorial windows, is a total loss. The interior of the church had recently undergone renovation and new carpets.

The Rev. John Tate, pastor, stated that there is $18,000 insurance on the church.

OFFICIALS DROP THEIR PLAN TO CUT NUMBER OF AUTOS

Instead, Officials Request Reduction Recommendations From Jury; New System in Effect.

Fulton county commissioners yesterday abandoned their plan to reduce the number of automobiles for which they will approve payment of operating costs for county business, and instructed Commission Chairman Ed L. Almand to seek recommendations of reductions from the grand jury.

The action was taken at the new mileage-allowance plan of operation went into effect and 109 employees of the county qualified under the recently enacted program.

A lengthy discussion was held of possible eliminations from the long list of qualified participants under the plan.

A special subcommittee of the grand jury has been considering the alleged abuses under the old system, and it has been announced that the grand jury proposes to cite instances of where machines are provided where they are not needed.

Text of Gloer Hailey Resolution To Abolish Board's Committees

Fulton county commissioners yesterday refused to adopt the following resolution offered by Commissioner Gloer Hailey, which would have abolished all commission committees, and, in effect, would have stripped Commission Chairman Ed L. Almand of committee appointment authority:

Resolution by Commissioner Hailey:

Whereas, the board of commissioners of roads and revenues of Fulton county consists of five members elected from the county at large, and

Whereas, the board of commissioners collectively possess all authority and very few legal acts can be completed except in their names, and

Whereas, under the present system of committee appointments this authority is divided into five parts, each exercised by a single member of the board known as chairman of that particular committee, to whom power to act is given on practically all matters relating to the functions of that department, and

Whereas, the purpose and intent of the law is to place equal responsibility as well as authority in each individual member of the commission acting collectively on all matters and functions pertaining to the county government, and

Whereas, we believe that five members acting as a committee of the whole over every department of government will result in more integrated planning of the co-ordinated planning of five members will be broader in its scope than the best individual efforts of one member, as now existing, heads had been nullified in their efforts to apply their knowledge, by some commission chairman, who does not know what it is all about."

He then made the charge which was denied immediately by Chastain, that it is the unwritten law of the board the committee head shall run his department "and all other commissioners shall keep their noses out of that department."

Almand, Adams in Till.

When Adams said he was relegated to the "political doghouse" when a previous appointment made him chairman of the finance committee, Chastain asked him if he did not ask Commission Chairman Almand to appoint him chairman of the police committee when George F. Longino resigned from the commission.

Adams denied he had done so. "Yes you did, doctor," Almand said. "You came to me and implied that you were appointing me as chairman of the police committee. I gave it to you."

Adams again denied it. Chastain ended the argument by adding:

"I would rather have one-man government than one of five wranglers."

Hailey countered with: "You are right. This resolution would be equivalent to one-man government, and the department heads would accept the responsibility if we let them alone."

Almand and Ragsdale sat on the side lines for the most part. When the resolution was killed, Hailey entered a plea for harmony and co-operation.

AFL RULES SOPHIE SPANKED TOO HARD

Board Directs AAAA To Re-instate Her Union.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 15.—(P)—The American Federation of Labor's executive council ruled tonight that Sophie Tucker's American Federation of Actors had been too cruelly punished when the Associated Actors and Artists of America turned it out into the cold.

The executive council called on the AAAA to reinstate the union and ordered the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, which had adopted the orphaned body, to withdraw the charter it gave the AFA.

A point yet to be settled is the status of Ralph Whitehead, executive secretary of the AFA.

Miss Tucker, head of the AFA, seemed emphatic that Whitehead would stay. Ralph Morgan, president of the Screen Actors' Guild, said that there would be no settlement unless Whitehead resigned.

Grand Jury Indicts Driver Dismissed in Police Court

Fulton county grand jury yesterday threw the proverbial "book" at Howard Walker, negro, when it returned a four-count indictment against him after Councilman Frank Wilson, sitting for one of the police recorders, dismissed charges against Walker for "lack of prosecution."

Indictment counts charged Howard as follows:

1. Operating an automobile on North avenue at a speed of 55 miles an hour.
2. Driving and operating the machine belonging to Ben Blakeley, 375 Boulevard, N. E., without the owner's consent.
3. Driving over a railroad crossing at 60 miles an hour.
4. Operating the car over an unsafe railroad crossing without stopping at least 50 feet from the crossing.

Walker was arrested on August 6. The case was set for trial on August 15, but Wilson, in his capacity of acting recorder, moved the date up three days to August 12 and notified the officers.

The policemen failed to appear on the new date, so when the case was called, Wilson dismissed it for "want of prosecution."

Then came the parade before the grand jury yesterday. Listed as witnesses against Walker in addition to Blakeley are Louis P. Jones, 612 North avenue, N. E., and Police Officers S. W. Roper, W. D. Nash and J. D. Timmie.

Hornets in Full Control Of Sections of Denver

DENVER, Aug. 15.—(P)—Hornet hordes created quite a stir in Denver.

Broom and fly swatter-swinging housewives appealed to police, but Chief August Hanebuth backed away. Cautioning his men to keep out of hornets' nests, he explained:

"We are not equipped to handle such insects."

His advice was to call commercial eradicators.

That, however, was no ointment to Mrs. Clarence Losh, whose swollen hornet-stung foot wouldn't permit her to walk. Children, and even dogs, were bitten.

The United States Biological Survey office had a solution: Leave the hornets alone—they'll go away come the first chilly day.

NATIVE GEORGIAN'S 'RESCUE BELL' IS REJECTED BY NAVY

J. W. Justus' Invention Is Tested by Officer in Charge of Squalus Salvage Operations.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—After making thorough tests of a new type of submarine rescue bell invented by J. W. Justus, of Birmingham, Ala., Navy Department officials revealed today that the device has been rejected.

The new form of rescue chamber was submitted to the Navy Department for study after the Squalus disaster off the New England coast May 23.

Tested by Cole. Rear Admiral C. W. Cole, in charge of Squalus salvage operations, personally witnessed tests recently of the Justus bell at the naval submarine base off New London, Conn. In a report filed with the department here, he found that the bell was "neither suitable or adaptable for government use."

Navy officials withheld the text of the Cole report, but said that a number of new devices for submarine rescue operations had been submitted since the Squalus disaster.

Self-Operating. The Justus bell was described as a self-operating normal atmospheric pressure chamber differing from present naval equipment in that the diver goes down inside the bell and attaches it to hatch from the inside rather than from the outside.

J. W. Justus, whose new type "rescue bell" yesterday was rejected by the Navy Department, is a native of Hall county, Georgia, and a former resident of Swainsboro. At the present time his home is in Birmingham.

Sulfanilamide Not a Magic Wand Suddenly Discovered, Says Dr. Allen

Optimist Club Told Wonder Drug Is the Result of Long Years of Study and Research; Its Use and Misuse Is Outlined.

Discovery, development, use and misuse of sulfanilamide were briefly outlined before the Optimist Club yesterday by Dr. Eustace Allen.

Contrary to popular impression, he said, the drug as used today is no magic wand, suddenly put in the grasp of a grateful medical profession, but is the result of long years of study and experiment.

Found by a scientist in Germany in 1908, it was 1913 before it was known that it would kill bacteria, and 1923 when it was found it would kill streptococci.

Tried on Living Tissues. After chemical and bacterial experiments, the next step was observation of its effects on the living tissues of animals. Then, as with other new methods, came its clinical applications. Certain hospitals were chosen, given the drug to test, and detailed reports were kept of its action on patients. Ultimately, enough was known about sulfanilamide's reactions to make it available to the general public.

The drug is applicable to all branches of medicine, has many uses, and scientists are still experimenting with it and its derivatives, Dr. Allen said.

So far it has been found especially effective in treating streptococcal infections, meningitis, child bed fever, gas gangrene, trachoma, blood poisoning, rabbit fever and certain types of arthritis.

New Uses Found. How close the drug will come to fulfilling the average layman's imagination.

REVOKABLE PARDON GRANTED TO SNEAD

Convict Free To Get Treatment for Illness.

H. H. Snead, of Atlanta, who was serving life for a murder committed in 1934, was granted a conditional pardon yesterday by Governor Rivers.

Snead, night watchman at the Constitution building, was convicted of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of J. E. Lucas, building superintendent.

Downing Musgrove, the Governor's executive secretary, said that the clemency was ordered on recommendation of prison physicians who reported the prisoner suffering with an incurable malady. The Governor stipulated that Snead must go to Alabama and live with relatives who have promised to provide needed medical attention. The pardon is revokable at the pleasure of the chief executive.

LUMP-SUM CLAIMS NOW REFUSED AGED

New Social Security Revision Speeds Monthly Benefits.

Congressional approval of a bill amending the social security act has caused the Social Security Board to stop accepting claims for lump sum old-age insurance benefits, Joseph R. Murphy, manager of the Atlanta field office, said yesterday.

Under the revised program, Murphy said, workers reaching the age of 65 will apply for lifetime monthly benefits instead. These benefits will be payable beginning next January 1, instead of in 1942, as originally scheduled. Discontinuance of claims, however, does not apply to death benefits, also made in lump sums under the original law, he pointed out.

Merchants Favor Thanksgiving Shift

Atlanta Businessmen Give Approval to Roosevelt's Proposed Proclamation Moving Up the Holiday.

President Roosevelt's proposed proclamation moving Thanksgiving Day up a week from November 30 to November 23 met with hearty approval yesterday among a cross-section of Atlanta businessmen.

Since the Christmas shopping season usually begins the day after Thanksgiving, the consensus was that the six additional shopping days not only would benefit the public but would mean more and better business.

Meanwhile, Governor Rivers said Georgia would fall in line with the President's proposal. He said he thought the holiday was a matter of spirit, not of date.

F. D. R. Can Set Date.

At the same time he explained the Georgia code permits President Roosevelt to name the Thanksgiving date in this state. Although it specifies certain other holidays by date, it says Thanksgiving Day may be appointed by the Governor or the President.

One businessman pointed out the change in date would bring additional employment to hundreds of retail clerks and other workers who are taken on as "extras" during the Christmas shopping season.

Comments of businessmen follow:

L. L. Austin, secretary of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association:

"Our association is heartily in favor of the change in date. With six days added by moving the holiday up a week, we can relieve congestion and make things easier for everyone."

Two Franklin Roosevelts Chat at Campobello Island

Sea-going President Roosevelt goes ashore at the Roosevelt summer home at Campobello island for a brief visit during his Atlantic vacation. Here he and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D.

Roosevelt Jr. chat with his cruiser-home, the Tuscaloosa, shown in the background. The President was back at sea last night ready to catch any big fish that got into his way.

Atlanta Chamber of Commerce: "The first thought that occurs to me is that the proposal will give a more even distribution of time between holidays. The change in date will bring Thanksgiving closer to Labor Day and farther away from Christmas. Then, too, I am sure it will have a salutary effect on business."

Raymond A. Kline: "Thanksgiving has always been the psychological beginning of the Christmas season. With Thanksgiving moved up, the retail stores will get more business, but in addition to that hundreds will go to work earlier as extra employees for the Christmas shopping season. In Atlanta these employees probably will get 40,000 more working hours. Throughout the nation millions will benefit in a similar manner. I am delighted with the idea."

Rich Likes Plan.
Richard H. Rich: "I think it is a splendid idea. Many shoppers as well as stores will go for the change in a big way. As it is now we have too many holidays too close together. Thanksgiving is always the beginning of Christmas activities. To lose six days against last year would be deflation."

G. C. Jones: "I am sure the change will be helpful to business by giving extra shopping days."

A. L. Zachry: "My only reaction is that President Roosevelt is breaking another precedent. I can't see that the change will help business particularly."

Mayor Hartsfield's comment yesterday on President Roosevelt's proposal was:

"We are thankful here in Atlanta, and we'll give thanks on the day he says."

CROWLEY NAMED TO RADIO POSITION
Atlanta Succeeds Reid on Georgia Commission.

Appointment of William V. Crowley, Atlanta banker, as a member of the Georgia Radio Commission to succeed Chief Justice Charles S. Reid, was announced yesterday by the State Executive Department.

Marvin Griffin, Bainbridge editor and aide to Governor Rivers, has been director and secretary of the commission, succeeding L. T. Gillen. The commission was created in 1937 to operate station WGST, owned by Georgia Tech.

TURKEY DAY CHANGE WIDELY PROTESTED

Two Thanksgivings Loom as Rebellion, Praise Greet F. D. R.'s Plan.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(P)—A gridiron rebellion grew today as a pile-up of protests from rock-ribbed traditionalists against President Roosevelt's plan to change the day of Thanksgiving this year from November 30 to November 23.

Many in authority and businessmen favored the President's precedent-smashing idea—to help business—but the football people were both amazed and flabbergasted over what to do with games scheduled for November 30.

There may be two Thanksgivings this year.

Tradition-bound New England was largely shocked.

Senator Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, led the opposition in Washington with a statement that the President's announcement was "a complete surprise because there had been no intimation of it in Mrs. Roosevelt's column."

Heartily approving the President's announcement was Lew Hahn, general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, who on August 4 addressed a communication to Secretary of Commerce Hopkins urging an earlier Thanksgiving as "good for business."

His organization represents some 5,700 department, specialty and dry goods stores, which were estimated to do well over $500,000,000—or around 15 per cent of the yearly total—in the peak shopping season from Turkey Day to Christmas.

But from the angry tone of authorities most vehemently opposed to the proposed change it appeared there might be a dual Thanksgiving this year, with some states gorging on turkey, cranberries and football on November 23 and the Old Guard having theirs a week later, which would be just another Thursday to "New Dealers."

CIVIL SERVICE PLAN TO BE ADVOCATED
Program for Fulton Employees Will Be Aired at Meeting Planned Soon.

A round-table discussion aimed to bring about civil service for Fulton county employees will be held within the next few weeks, it was announced last night following a meeting of Fulton County Employees Union Local No. 3.

Kenneth Murrell, president, said members of the board of county commissioners, members of the Fulton delegation of the general assembly, county department heads, labor organizations and interested citizens' groups would be invited.

W. S. Northcutt, assistant county attorney and chairman of the local legislative committee, voiced a strong plea for a civil service bill.

Murrell said that due to vacations, the round-table discussion must wait for a few weeks. He added he hoped it would be held early in September.

Smith; three daughters, Misses Evelyn and Roberta Smith and Mrs. Homer Spivey Jr.; a son, James Smith; her mother, Mrs. Lee Wallace; two sisters, Mrs. Carl Lane and Mrs. Grady Rector; and a brother, G. W. Wallace. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Henry M. Blanchard.

Spectators crowded the waterfront as the Tuscaloosa and the Lang slipped downstream to sea again after the seven-hour stop.

2 Bank Messengers Robbed Of $70,000 by Five Bandits

Quintet Escapes Despite Elaborate Police Plan of Apprehension Which Had Waited Six Years for Just Such an Event.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(P)—Under the menacing snouts of two machine guns, two bank messengers were robbed of $70,000 in a swiftly-executed holdup today by five bandits who then escaped despite an elaborate plan of apprehension which had been waiting six years for just such an event.

From the main street of this summer resort town, where the robbery occurred virtually on the steps of the postoffice, the bandits sped presumably across one of three bridges connecting the island with the Long Island mainland—and disappeared.

By land, sea and air, police, directed by wireless, pressed their search unavailingly during the day, carrying out a plan of operation similar to that of the army's famous "M" day preparations.

Within second of the robbery's completion, radio cars, the top of each bearing a large numeral, sped to pre-appointed positions; Nassau county patrol boats and the coast guard moved to block escape by sea and an airplane droned overhead directing the search to suspected points.

Late in the day Federal Bureau of Investigation agents also entered the search.

Not a shot was fired in the hold-up.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15.—(P)—Wind-blown hair-dos are sissy stuff—Mrs. Virginia Rivas could tell her friends today that her coiffure was tousled by lightning.

The bolt traveled down the Rivas' radio aerial to strike Mrs. Rivas in her home. Pins in her just-marcelled hair were scattered several yards around. She was uninjured save for a resultant toothache.

ACTOR HOLT RESISTS MAIL-ORDER DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—(P)—A controversy involving a Mexican divorce and property settlement entered into seven years ago by Film Actor Jack Holt and Margaret Wood Holt was disclosed today.

Holt has sued to have the divorce set aside and the property settlement declared void. She obtained the divorce by mail from Chihuahua, Mexico, and never went there, he said.

THREATENING FATHER PERMITS OPERATION

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 15.—(P)—A father accused by his 15-year-old daughter of withholding permission for an appendectomy unless she would make her home with him, granted the request today.

This made unnecessary W. G. Holmes' appearance in court to show cause why he should not permit the operation, as directed in an order granted by Justice McGregor yesterday.

Since her mother's death in 1934, the daughter, Teresa, has been living at the home of an aunt.

Perpetual Citizenship

There was little yesterday the will of the late Mrs. John Dozier Little, whose recent death in Germany brought sorrow to many in the state. The widow of one of Georgia's well-known lawyers and citizens, her will reveals the depth and extent of their regard for the state.

A sum estimated at about $750,000 is left in trust to two sisters. They are to enjoy its income as long as they shall live. This property then reverts to the regents of the University of Georgia, who must use it to build a library at the University of Georgia at Athens.

Mrs. Little's will reveals that this plan had been a "cherished idea for many years" and that she and her husband often had discussed it. Indicative of the thought given the library, and the sentiment which goes with it, Mrs. Little specified the library must be a colonial building. The funds must be employed to build it, supply it with books, and an endowment must be created annually to bring a supply of new books to the library. In addition, Mrs. Little leaves furniture of the colonial period and many valuable portraits which will be hung in the library. It further is stipulated the building must be on the site of the old chancellor's home, between the two campuses.

In this manner two of Georgia's citizens extend their citizenship beyond life and make of it a perpetual citizenship to Georgia. Their lives will be of service to countless generations to come as the young men and women go to the university to prepare themselves for life. Their friendship and value as citizens will take on an immortality of service. It is not surprising that this "cherished idea" should fill a need long felt.

The Movie Newspaperman

Reports from Will Hays' office in Hollywood, where the movie industry has its morals surveyed and censored, have it that a new type of newspaperman is to be demanded by the Tsar of producers.

This will cause extreme gratification in the newspaper shops of the nation even if it does shatter the illusions of some movie-goers. It must be admitted that Mr. Joseph I. Breen, who has demanded the new characterization for a new script, speaks with truth when he sees a very important question of industry involved.

Newspapermen do not like to think of themselves as being exactly like other people. Their work is different. It touches new lives, new emotions and events every day of the year. Yet aside from that, the average newspaperman's life is not so different. He eats his meals at approximately the same time as his fellow man and enjoys much the same existence.

The newspaperman has seen himself pictured as a cadger of drinks, as a drunken, happy-go-lucky bum who always wrote the best story when pie-eyed and obtained the best "beat" while asleep in a barroom. He has seen presented a life which was a frenzy of dissipation in which mistresses, drinks, drunks and poker games were well mixed.

They know no newspaperman writes better while drunk than sober. They know all the great "masterpieces" of that tradition were written by some sober friend and turned in under the pie-eyed one's by-line. The newspaperman today must, during his office hours, be as sober, if not as sedate, as the banker. He may enjoy a cocktail or a highball before dinner but it is not compulsory.

All of us will await with interest the new movie characterization of a newspaperman.

Buy Inspected Meat

Following comment in news and editorial columns condemning sale of diseased meats in Atlanta, licensed producers cite the fact that consumer co-operation can prove the greatest factor in elimination of the bootlegged product. They cite that all meat legitimately sold within the city bears an inspector's stamp, and urge that all buyers demand to be shown this mark before purchasing.

Bootlegged meat will not bear this stamp. Because few realize the danger of uninspected meats, it is doubly necessary that they be taught to buy only the stamped product. The city inspectors, unable with present personnel to cope with the situation, are paid from public funds, and because of this every taxpayer should co-operate to the end that the public be served.

All meat sold in Atlanta should bear the stamp of city inspection. It is the public's guarantee of meat free from disease. By co-operation the menace of uninspected meat can be eliminated.

A World Fair crowd hails Trudy Ederle, swimmer of the English channel in '26. Today, it would be an easier feat, as Britain and La Belle France were never so close.

"The Thunderer" Squeaks

No newspaper in America occupies the unique position held by The Times in England. It mirrors the minds of those who rule England. During the days of empire building The Times earned its name, "The Thunderer." Now, its foes call it "The Squeaker." It is the paper of the famous "Cliveden Set" of which so much has been written and which reportedly wields so much influence upon government in England.

Whether it merits the criticism of its foes, the fact remains The Times rather established its reputation as a sopsayer for British government last September.

It was on last September 6, to be exact, that The Times published a very modest little statement to the effect that probably the Sudeten territory really ought to be given to Germany. At the time England had spoken out for Czechoslovakia and there were certain implied guarantees of that country's independence. France had signed a written guarantee, England had implied one. This caused some consternation in England and the publication was hotly denied. Yet, within a short time it became apparent that was just what England intended to do. The Times carried Mr. Chamberlain along to Munich and announced "A New Dawn."

This is important only in light of what has happened with regard to Poland and Danzig. England announced the dictators had gone far enough; that the might of England would be spent in behalf of Poland.

Now comes The Times, saying that if Italy and Germany are seeking "peaceful revision of some of the remaining provisions of the Versailles treaty," they will, no doubt "find a general readiness to confer among all the interested states."

This would seem to indicate another "Munich." One of the newspaper foes of The Times has said, "There is strong reason to believe that if Hitler presents an ultimatum, the Premier will suggest a conference of Britain, Germany, France and Italy to settle the differences."

All of which is a beautiful illustration of European "power" politics. And a forceful argument as to why we should work at our problems of unemployment, health and government and not be so concerned with Europe.

How Much Power?

Dictatorship is no less complete when it affects one element in the national economy while the others roll along in a fool's paradise. How many realize that the United States has a dictatorship—a dictatorship of all agriculture?

Several weeks ago a federal jurist in Chicago ruled that milk marketing no longer came under the jurisdiction of the courts. Under the Sherman law, complete and plenary powers had been conferred by congress upon the Secretary of Agriculture.

And last week President Roosevelt signed into law a bill which has the effect of closing the door to free enterprise in the stockyards and marketing agencies field. Under a previous law, the secretary of agriculture had power to prescribe maximum and minimum rates for services rendered by these stockyards and marketing agencies.

Under the new law, the secretary not only is given the power to set flat rates, but also to limit the number of stockyard owners, marketing agencies or dealers by requiring newcomers to obtain from him a certificate showing public necessity in their proposed operations. The power, then, of regulating free enterprise. This congress voted, this President signed, and this the added control over the agricultural empire given the Secretary of Agriculture.

That agriculture needs assistance, no sane person can question. But it may be seriously questioned whether the people, rural or urban, wish that assistance to take the form, as it now has, of rigid, uncontrollable dictatorship. For dictatorship in one field of economic life can only mean eventual dictatorship in all fields.

Rains came in the nick of time to forestall drought and fill the creeks. An age that has got itself streamlined looks silly without streams.

It was a diner in Berlin who asked, "Why can't I have more butter?" To which the waiter replied, "I'm not allowed to discuss politics."

Our thoughts are with all husbands who live on cheaper cuts, while the wife saves up for fox furs to wear at her divorce hearing.

Don't look now, Tokyo, but it develops that Germany has profited hugely by selling arms to China's Chiang Kai-shek.

Editorial of the Day

WOMEN'S PRIVILEGE

(From The Jackson (Miss.) Daily News.)
Jokesmiths would have had a thin time of it during the past 600 or 6,000 years if they hadn't had the old standby about the woman's privilege of changing her mind. Through repetition, this prerogative has become as firmly established as the Rock of Gibraltar used to be.

This is all very fine, and so far as men go, they are used to it and freely grant it. But there is a side to this changeability which is not so well known. It is the dollars-and-cents cost of it.

If it weren't for the fact that women return one-eighth of the goods they buy in department stores, the cost of those goods would be lower. In other words, the entire sales of one day in eight are sent back. The cost of operating that day is a dead loss. Who pays for it? Why, the people who buy the goods—not only those who return a lot of them, but all buyers.

These conclusions are reached by the Twentieth Century Fund, a research organization which has been investigating various phases of retailing. The report is not yet final, but it suggests a tremendous source of waste in the returned-goods privilege.

Every buyer, this preliminary report points out, who orders several articles on approval, intending to buy only one, or who returns an article several times because it does not suit her, is adding materially to the general cost of distribution.

At a time when the whole distributive system is being studied with a view to cutting its cost and thereby widening it, this is an interesting sight.

And it reveals again that one reason why things are high in the United States is because the people of this country have become accustomed to, and demand, levels of service, convenience, and choice known nowhere else.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

POLITICAL FLAVOR WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The tax evasion indictment of Moses L. Annenberg, who probably enjoys America's largest cash income and can speak as an equal to the Agha Khan himself, makes this a good moment for a report on the Department of Justice. Since Frank Murphy was named attorney general, the large, be-murled building with the plutocratic-ionic facade has undergone an invisible but revolutionary transformation.

Because tempering the wind to the fat lamb is one of the most important branches of practical politics, the Justice Department's political flavor has usually been only slightly less rank than that of the post office. This has been true in progressive Democratic as well as in conservative Republican administrations. Indeed, the department's only nonpolitical periods in recent memory were under George W.ickersham in the Taft administration and Harlan Fiske Stone in the time of Coolidge, while few attorney generals have been so amiably political as Homer S. Cummings, who served Roosevelt in justice before Murphy came.

Frank Murphy succeeded Cummings at a time especially propitious for a new kind of Justice Department. The department had been political because the New Deal shared the unwillingness of all administrations to deny favors to powerful political supporters. When Frank Murphy was appointed, however, the President and his New Dealers had already involved themselves in their bitter struggle with the practical men of their party. There was no reason to grant favors. In truth, the temptation was to mete out punishments.

NEW FACES Thus it was feasible for Murphy to reorganize the Justice Department as, in any case, he would have wanted to. There have already been many intimations of what he was up to. It may now be said that his work of reorganization is complete.

The best test of Murphy's thoroughness is the extraordinary number of new faces in the top departmental posts. O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division; Samuel O. Clark, assistant attorney general in charge of tax cases; Francis Shea, in charge of claims; Norman M. Littell, in charge of the land division—these are perhaps the most important of the new men, although there are so many that it is hard to mention any holdovers besides G-man J. Edgar Hoover, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson and Trust-Buster-in-Chief Thurman W. Arnold.

Without exception, the new men at the Justice Department are members of the New Deal group, and many of them began their Washington careers as clients of Thomas G. Corcoran's celebrated amateur employment agency. They are energetic, imbued with a firm distaste for practical politicians of any sort, and vastly excited by the task before them. Already they are beginning to be known by their fruits. A Chicago gambler famous for his political contributions was indicted shortly before Annenberg's Louisiana ring, once the beneficiaries of the "second Louisiana purchase," are now being hounded by the relentless Rogge. And so it goes.

GIFT HORSE'S MOUTH The changes at the Justice Department manifest themselves in many other ways, such as Murphy's effort to clean up the judiciary and get better judges, and his just-starting drive against organized crime. But the department's assaults on the politicians and the politician's fat-cats are really more significant, being a complete departure from ancient practice.

They should not be taken as being wholly the department's work, or as wholly pure and fine in purpose. Both the Pendergast and Annenberg cases, for example, were really prepared in the legal division of the Treasury. And if motives are to be investigated, it is always well to remember that going after the politicians, even the Democratic politicians, is going after the enemy from the New Deal point of view. Indeed, the New Dealers, who also hope that Murphy will give Dewey pretty stiff competition, are frank in saying that one of the finest results of the Justice Department's reorganization will be the destruction of many who might oppose the President in the 1940 convention.

Nevertheless, there is no use looking gift horses in the mouth. If the country cannot have a nonpolitical Justice Department unless the President and his lieutenants fall out with their party leaders, it may be well to give thanks for the falling out.

The only thing to watch for now is a sudden leniency towards such party leaders as may be induced, by threats of awful judgments, to see things the President's and his lieutenants' way.

Filing the

Correspondence.
Years ago one of the most charming men in a wide acquaintance was a retired newspaper editor who had been a mighty man in his day. He was old, then, but still alert and bright and capable of wielding a gifted pencil. (He never learned to use a type-writer.)

Like so many men of his type he was a wretched correspondent. Hated to write letters and, in fact, rarely did so. Someone, once, asked about his system of filing and correspondence. He described it.

"I keep two chairs at my desk. In addition to the one in which I sit," he said, "One at either hand. On the left hand I place, each morning after opening my mail, the letters which do not require an answer. On the right I place those to which I should make reply."

"Of course, I never answer either variety, the left-hand stack or the right hand. When the two chairs are piled so high the letters begin to slip off, onto the floor, my porter takes them and puts them in my letter room."

"This is a rather large, bare room in the middle of the building. There is nothing in it but a desk, no shelves or files or cabinets. The letters are just there, in a great pile upon the floor. It must be nearly full, by now."

"But it is the most perfect filing system ever devised. For I always know, immediately, where any letter is. It is in the letter room. It is of course, impossible to find any particular letter, but I've seen most elaborate filing systems, with staffs of filing clerks, whose letters went astray. And it is very economical, both as to costs and labor."

No Indication

Of Friendship.
While that ancient friend's method may have been a trifle too drastic, it is true that there are myriads of unnecessary letters written, dictated or "dictated but not read," in this business world of ours.

Mr. A. writes Mr. B. asking certain information. Mr. B. writes back giving it. Two unnecessary letters. But then unnecessary correspondence begins.

Mr. A. writes a letter of thanks for the info. Mr. B. acknowledges receipt of that letter and assures that he was glad to assist. Mr. A. writes one more, "yours of such-and-such date and contents noted."

And so on. You never know the endless chain of letter writing you may start with one simple, mailed request.

It is no excuse to say, either, that courtesy letters are necessary. They're not. Most of them are.

Signs of Times Dept.

In Lake Worth, Fla., when the fire siren blows now, it probably denotes a fire. The siren had been used for years to shriek out persons under 16 to get off the streets. City councilmen abolished the law.

Foresters Use Plane.

To spot forest fires more effectively, the United States forest service has placed five private airplanes under contract in California. They will carry foresters on surveys over 18 national forests.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Mr. Elkins' NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Although Mr. Bud Elkins of the United Press has been kicked out of Italy there is still ground for hoping that the report which brought on this retaliation is true. The U. P. disseminated in this country a report heard in London that Mussolini had suffered a heart attack.

The Duke had faded out of his army maneuvers and the maneuvers themselves were abruptly curtailed, and it must be assumed that if he did have a heart attack Rome would deny it. The denial therefore means nothing, and those who were briefly cheered need not despair on that account.

Not even his reappearance in public need be accepted as complete refutation, although it is, to be sure, slightly depressing, because it is not impossible for persons having cardiac troubles to rebound quickly. Indeed, if he was stricken, his public appearance soon afterward would suggest that he must have another and worse one reasonably soon. Rest and resignation are the remedies commonly prescribed, and if Mussolini denied himself the customary treatment in order to make a showing he will have imposed a strain on his heart which will reveal its effect in time.

The Chances Meanwhile, it of Error

should be kept in mind that under the conditions imposed on foreign correspondents in Italy and Germany, the chances of error are many more than the actual errors would suggest. We do not know the authority of this report, but anyone who knows the personnel and methods of the American press in the foreign field would be tempted to assume that it originated in Rome and was a London date line was camouflage. The Italians and Germans have a habit of transcribing telephone conversations on wax records so one would guess that the phone was not used in this case. But it would have been possible to whisper the news to some trusted acquaintance leaving Rome for Paris, and for that person to communicate it to the Paris bureau for relay to London. They also have a trick of planting false information with persons who are suspected of having secret dealings with American journalists so that when the reports show up in print they know whom to grab. And they further have a trick of planting propaganda in such a way that a journalist coming to report it thinks he has made a discovery, whereas the same stuff given out as an official release would be turned down or strongly copped.

The Italian and German system of censorship, lately adopted by Russia and won a minor way by President Roosevelt, too, is one of intimidation and harassment as distinguished from the simpler method of examining all dispatches and deleting parts or suppressing all. Under this system, a journalist is held accountable for everything that he sends, but is given no definite understanding of the rules or limits. He never knows when he sends a story whether he will be kicked out with his wife, the canary and the cat, or a journalist's notice or called down to the press bureau to be lectured or threatened by some swollen little politician. This business of calling a foreign journalist on the carpet and warning him time and again that the tone of a story was unfriendly or ruling that the facts were incorrect when the reporter knows they were absolutely true has an effect on the nerves of the victim. He may become shy and shade his copy so as to avoid offense, or he may become so nervous that he shoots the works, in which case the flycops come around to help him pack his stuff and boot him over the border.

Roosevelt Mr. Roosevelt adopted the harassment and intimidation method recently with Lyle Wilson, the chief of the U. P.'s Washington bureau, lecturing him on one occasion on the tone or treatment of a political article, and denouncing the U. P. for fakery a short time later, in the case of a news item on which the two reporters involved stood pat. If, hereafter, Wilson must honestly and fairly report developments unfavorable to the President, he may be accused of vengefulness. Mr. Roosevelt has put him on the spot.

Method. The removal of Mussolini from the troubled scene just now or soon might be no great boon, because nobody can predict what would happen then. Nevertheless, if he were to dissolve, the democratic peoples, after Monte Cristo, would raise a finger and a cry of "one."

Ordinarily it is in bad taste or worse to exult at such news, and possibly some will stretch that rule to include even Mussolini. But if he was sick can't we at least remark, as Irvin Cobb did when his city editor was ill: "Dear, dear, I hope it is nothing trivial."

Britain's Large Lake. Britain's largest lake is Lough Neagh, in Ireland. Its shores touch five of Ulster's six counties. Ten rivers flow into it, and motor boat trips on its 153 square miles start every summer from Antrim.

Constitution Quiz

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE BACKLOG OF CHARACTER I want to write something about a Baptist minister from Australia but don't quite know how to begin. Being a nonsectarian sort of person and addicted to the habit of late sleeping on Sunday morning with just time for lots of black coffee before it is time for noon dinner, I am not too familiar with religious discourse.

Nevertheless, I think I have heard the finest such discourse. It was from the tall man with the twinkling eyes and graying hair who came from Australia and remained to preach at Old Salem campground—Dr. C. J. Tinsley. I heard him first at a meeting of the Ten Club and not again until one day he came into the office. He mentioned something to another man that day—something about us living on a backlog left us by our fathers. Yesterday when he came I asked him to amplify that remark.

I hesitate to try and put it down because I do not know if his tremendous sincerity and vitality, which are in his words without shouting or raising his voice, can be put down on paper.

I think his premise would apply to all people of all religions. This premise was that today there are so many persons who themselves are fine persons, possessed of character, integrity and decency. This, he believes, they received from their fathers and forefathers, who were men who worked hard, who earnestly believed in principles, who set up a moral code which becomes, through the years, a sort of instinct. It is something which gets into the mind and makes it know, without debate, what is, for that person, wrong and what is right. These fine men, having received this moral and spiritual legacy, are living on it, using it, and, most important, are not passing anything on to the next generation.

"It's all right for us—we've got enough to get by with—but what about the next generation?"

That, I think, was something of what he said, in beginning.

STERN OLD MEN "I have heard men say," he said, "speaking of their fathers:

"A great old gentleman, great. But very stern. Fine character. But I can't stand with him on all those things."

"That very man," he said, "rarely thinks that the reason he himself is a good citizen, a good father; the reason he has had the ambition and the determination to go on and make a home for himself and his children and a good name for himself—is because of what that stern old man gave him as a legacy of character, morality and spirituality."

Understand, we were just talking; just sitting in the office, with the rain outside and the noise of the traffic coming in through the windows. It was most casual. But his words were there. There seemed such a very real logic in what he said I was trying to follow it.

"I have a great friend at home. He is a fine man. He has a great inheritance from his forefathers. He has something on which to go. He chided me, saying it was too much trouble to go to church. He was telling his son it was up to the son what he should do about it."

"The boy grew older. One day the boy was in trouble. The father came to me and said, 'I see now what you used to say to me. I didn't before. I could keep my feet on the ground because of what I had given to me. I gave my boy nothing on which to go.'"

THE TRUE REFORM "It is no good," he said, "saying to a people, 'Do not do this. Do not drink. Do not steal.' That is no good. It rebounds. That is the very nature of man. No reform can be accomplished without the spirit of reform. It is necessary to create in the minds of people a desire not to drink, not to steal, not to commit violence. It is not a prohibition that brings reform. It is the creating a desire and a spirit for reform which makes unnecessary a prohibition."

"I think one of the things wrong with some of us is an unwillingness to struggle; an unwillingness to take the little we have and try to make more of it; to fight up the ladder rung by rung. I do not mean heroics; I do not ignore the misery of unemployment and the fact something must be done for the unemployed. But I do think that religion gives a man an ambition nothing else can. The spirit of God can make a man victor over a bad environment—not a victim of it."

PILLARS OF LIFE—NOT DESPOILERS He told of seeing, at New Plymouth, the great statues carved in granite to the Pilgrims. There was the tall figure of Faith, the Old Testament in one hand and in an upraised hand the New Testament. At the feet of Faith, and looking upward, were other figures—Morality, Education, Law and Freedom.

"I have seen God come into a man's life and give him that which makes him go forward. I remember young hoodlums who became pillars of society, not despoilers. Left alone they would have been a perfect Fascist or Nazi unit, forgetting education, law, morality, education, freedom. I tell you, we ought not to forget our duty to pass on to the next generation something of that legacy which was given us. Some of its strength. Shall all freedom, education, law and morality die with the next generations?"

That, I think, was about it. It impressed me so much I wanted to tell it.

The British Threw Away Victory In the Dardanelles by Quitting One Day Too Soon

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Today I received letters from two young men who are making plans to enter college this fall. The letters were remarkable chiefly because they were so nearly identical. Both were full of good sense, hope and cheerful courage, yet both ended on a note of anxiety: "I won't be able to make it unless I get the breaks."

Anything written or spoken to dispel that anxiety is likely to seem hokey, or the words are so full of pep talks that you can't find variety that all of them seem mechanical and affected.

Yet it is simple, prosaic truth, established by proofs endlessly repeated through the ages, that a man can do anything on earth he is determined to do. Death can stop him, but nothing else under heaven. "Now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be."

We fail because we give up, or lose interest, or because the prize doesn't seem worth the effort, or because we let other things sidetrack us, or because we are lazy, or afraid, or without steadfast purpose, or plain energy; but never, never, never are we licked; we simply quit. When you find a man who can do no more, there's a monument over him.

A trapper caught by Indians was stripped and beaten and permitted to run for his life. He escaped, momentarily, by reaching a river and diving under a beaver house. He was naked, bruised, without weapon or tool or container for water, 80 miles of sun-baked, trackless desert watched by merciless savages, separated from the nearest post. To add the final touch of misery, he slipped and fell while climbing the river bank and broke an ankle. That should have doomed him. Yet it is a matter of historical record that he hobbled and crawled 90 miles to safety.

Casanova loved wild adventure, but he also had patience to shame Job. On one occasion he was imprisoned, for his sins, in a dungeon intended to be his tomb. Fast in chains, without light or sufficient food or friends or reason to hope; watched by armed guards and surrounded by 10-foot walls of stone, he was whipped if ever a man was. Yet by infinite patience and cunning, and a will that never wavered through all the weary months, he made an "impossible" escape and lived to end his days as a respectable librarian.

The hazards and the obstacles are different now, but the game is played the same way and the same qualities win. There are doubters, always, but if they can't do what they wish to do, it is because they wish to do some other thing more.

TWO GIRLS RELATE STORY OF KIDNAPING

Egan Pair Are Brought to Atlanta From Indiana by FBI Agents.

Two girls, 16 and 13, who told a pathetic story of having been mistreated by two men after they were kidnapped at Egan, Ga., and taken to Shelbyville, Ind., were returned to Atlanta yesterday and taken from a bus by FBI agents and incarcerated in the city prison pending an examination of their condition by police physicians today.

The girls told of having been accosted by two women, one with a pistol, while near their home at Egan, and placed in a truck, where two men attacked them after they had driven several miles.

This was last Wednesday, according to their story, which they related on Thursday afternoon when they were found by Shelbyville police after they said they

Wisconsin Voters Prefer G. O. P. by Slight Margin; Dewey and Garner Favored

—Gallup Poll—

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP.

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 15.—Ten months after a political upheaval which unseated the La Follette state regime and installed a Republican governor, public sentiment in the state of Wisconsin continues to lean slightly toward the Republican side, in national politics, judging by a special survey on political prospects for the 1940 campaign.

The survey, conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion, finds that a slight majority of Wisconsin voters would like to see the Republicans win the presidential election in 1940. Although President Roosevelt swept the state in 1932 and 1936, Wisconsin voters, when asked "What party would you like to see win the presidential election in 1940?" vote today as follows:

Would Like Republicans to Win 52%
Would Like Democrats to Win 48

The survey was not a measurement of the popularity of the Republican state administration in Wisconsin headed by Governor Julius P. Heil. The results are merely an indication of sentiment toward the forthcoming presidential campaign.

Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, is the leading choice for 1940 among Republican voters in Wisconsin, the survey finds, with Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, running a fairly close second, and Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, third. The leading Republican choices are:

REPUBLICANS PREFER

Dewey	37%
Vandenberg	24
Taft	16
Hoover	5
LaGuardia	4
Others	14

Included in the group labeled "others" are Senator William E. Borah, Alfred M. Landon, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, who recently threw his hat in the presidential ring.

Among Wisconsin Democrats, Vice President John N. Garner is the outstanding choice for 1940 in case Roosevelt does not seek reelection. Garner is far ahead of the nearest candidate, James A. Farley. The leading choices are:

DEMOCRATS PREFER

Garner	67%
Farley	8
Wallace	6
McNutt	4
Murphy	4
Others	11

The west central group of states, of which Wisconsin forms a part, is one of the sections most opposed to a third term for President Roosevelt, according to previous Institute surveys. In Wisconsin itself, today's survey finds that approximately one-third of the voters say they would vote for Roosevelt if he ran again, while two-thirds would oppose him.

Since taking office last November, the Republican administration of Governor Heil, a prosperous Milwaukee businessman, has caused much debate and controversy throughout the state. To test Governor Heil's popularity at the present time the Institute plans to conduct another special survey of Wisconsin.

had been put out of the truck.

While the story was being investigated, police said they doubted its authenticity. One of the girls had been previously reported delinquent, according to the police, and had run away earlier this year to New York.

Littlefield, Texas, commissioners ruled out all city employees except firemen from receiving free city water.

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

ALL HE HAD.

The boy in that crowd of 5,000 people, described in the Gospel of John, sixth chapter, was one of the great men of his day and generation. I am afraid we haven't quite understood how vital a part that boy had in this mighty miracle of our Lord. Neither Matthew, Luke nor Mark acknowledge the boy—they report the disciples as producing the loaves and fishes with no reference whatever to the little boy.

John's Gospel says: "One of the disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto Him, there is a lad here, who hath five barley loaves and two small fishes; but what are they among so many?"

And right there is where I think the big thing took place that day, insofar as human activity was concerned. It was in that moment of crisis that the little boy did the vital thing that enabled Jesus to perform His miracle. Note the language of Andrew, "but what are they (five barley loaves and two small fishes) among so many?" As if to definitely imply that a little boy with his picnic lunch was of no consequence in meeting such an emergency as then confronted the disciples and the Son of God.

"And Jesus said . . ." It is right there between the ninth and 10th verses of the sixth chapter of John's Gospel that the big thing happened. It is not recorded, but Jesus definitely indicates that something had happened—something that none nor all of the disciples were able to do—the boy had given all he had to Jesus, and his little in the hands of Jesus was enough to feed 5,000 hungry people and then fill 12 baskets from what was left.

That thrills my soul. It points the way by which we may resolve every problem in the world today into a glorious privilege. It teaches us that we are not going to get anywhere with our relief problems so long as we throw up our hands and rely upon man-made schemes. When our leaders are willing to turn to God, and give Him what we have, He will perform great and wonderful works in our midst.

I love to think of the scene at home that evening when the little boy arrived. The mother met him at the door. "Tired?", she asked, as she took him in her arms and kissed him. "No, mother. Let me tell you what happened. The great Teacher took my loaves and fishes when I gave them to Him, and He fed us all, and there were 12 big baskets of food left. Mother, I am so glad you let me go. I am so glad I got to see Him. Oh how wonderful He is. And I am so glad I could give all I had to Him." Selah.

TENNESSEE POWER PURCHASED BY U. S.

Deal Involving $78,425,095
Is Biggest of Kind in Nation's History.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Aug. 15. (AP)—Government authorities today paid $78,425,095 for electric power properties in Tennessee in the greatest transfer of utilities from private to public ownership in the history of the United States.

The money payment, in a ceremony participated in by more than 200 representatives of the federal government, municipalities, co-operative power companies, banks and private utilities, made Tennessee the first "public power" state in the nation.

The properties purchased were those of the Tennessee Electric Power Company, a subsidiary of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation.

Wendell L. Wilkie, president of Commonwealth, commented: "This transaction has demonstrated that no business, however well run, can endure against the competition of the federal government." He declared his company had been "forced" to sell because it could not compete with "subsidized government competition."

David E. Lillenthal, director of the federal-owned Tennessee Valley Authority, which contributed $44,728,300 to the purchase funds, asserted: "TVA has kept faith with the investors . . . has kept its word to consumers . . . has made good on its assurances to congress and the federal taxpayers that the project is self-liquidating."

The purchase ended five years of political, economic and propaganda battling between proponents of public and private ownership in the valley of the Tennessee river.

Cheer Up! Showers, Clouds To Be Lighter

Yesterday's weather high hit a new low or something like that. The Weather Bureau's thermometer got no higher than 76 for the first time since last May 19.

The combination of chilly showers, fresh breezes, and heavy clouds brought it about, officials said. The morning's low was 72.
Today's high is expected to be 86 with a low of 72. While there will be showers again, and clouds again, neither will be as heavy as yesterday's clouds and showers.

BAKING EMPLOYEES SUE FOR OVERTIME

37 Strikers Claim Approximately $6,500 Under Wage-Hour Law.

Thirty-seven employees of the Atlanta Baking Company filed suit in United States district court yesterday to recover back wages allegedly due them under the fair labor standards act for work in excess of 44 hours a week.

Irving Nathan, attorney for the 37, explained that the suit charges the company paid straight wages for overtime work after the act became effective last October, but failed to pay additional half-time as required by law. The plaintiffs, he said, also are entitled to recover an amount equal to wages due them as liquidated damages.

According to Nathan, a complaint against the company has been lodged with the Atlanta regional office of the wage-hour division of the Department of Labor, but as yet no action has been taken by the government.
The 37 employees who filed the suit yesterday have been on strike since July 22. Total sum due the workers, Nathan said, is close to $6,500.

Clark Howell Homes, the first of the authority's slum clearance projects to go under construction, is designed to house 630 families. The project will be built on approximately 30 acres of land between Techwood and Luckie streets. Old houses on the property already have been razed.

GEORGIA BAR BOARD TO MEET AT TYBEE

New Tye Administration
To Hold First Session
Next Friday.

Board of Governors of the Georgia Bar Association will hold a one-day meeting next Friday at the Hotel Tybee, Savannah Beach, John L. Tye Jr., president of the association, announced yesterday.

Atlantans expected to attend the meeting, the first since the new administration took office, include President Tye, Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Dean Charles J. Hilkey of Emory, Grover Middlebrooks of the Atlanta Bar Association, Blair Foster of the Atlanta Lawyers' Club, State Auditor Zach Arnold, and Augustus M. Roan of the Stone Mountain circuit.

At the close of the meeting, the Savannah Bar Association has planned a dinner for the visitors and members of the Ogeechee and Atlantic circuit bars.

"Individual membership in the association is now the greatest in its history, according to an incomplete check of the records," Tye said yesterday. "We believe this indicates a state-wide response by lawyers generally to the benefits of membership and active association in their bar association."

All in the GAME by Jack Troy

Mumblin' Sam Sobel is going to insist on a few matters being cleared up before—or if—he consents to Ben Brown meeting Teddy Yarosz in a rematch in an Atlanta ring.

Sobel intimated yesterday that he still has ideas of accepting the offer to hold the second fight in Pittsburgh.

"If we have de fight in Atlanta, I want two big policemen stationed in the corners. I want one in my corner and one in that Arce's corner. If he starts pulling the stuff he did before, I want him t'rowed out. The same thing goes for me. I'll be willing to be tossed out if I do something I shouldn't."

"Anudder thing, I want it understood that no boxing commission is going to send somebody into the ring afterwards disputing the decision. I don't want to be a party to any riots."

"I think there ought to be two competent judges besides Jack Dempsey. I like that Dempsey and trust him, but judges would make things a lot easier. In my own mind I know Brown can beat that Yarosz again. One paper said 7,000 booed the decision."

"But listen. I didn't boo. Brown didn't boo. And there were two handlers I know didn't boo! Brown won de fight."

Sobel made it plain that he was willing for Brown to fight Yarosz again, any time and anywhere. He would like for the fight to be here, but he wants everything settled in advance.

"If Brown don't moider de guy de next time, I'm not sittin' here. He got more confidence in that last fight and he learned something about fighting de cutie."

"Atlanta fans seem to class Brown as a country boy who hasn't got any business beatin' guys like Yarosz. But if dat's what dey really think, dey don't know nuttin' about Ben. He's goin' places."

"I hope things work out right and the fight can be held here in Atlanta, but I don't know. I'm not makin' any promises right now."

CONSERVATION SECURITY.

Georgia is starting ahead on a good program of conservation. Charles Elliott's school for game wardens is the finest thing that has ever happened in the state along this line.

The wardens that pass the examinations and go into the fields will be the best-trained group Georgia has ever had. They will inaugurate an educational program that is bound to bring results.

But—Georgia needs conservation security. The state legislature can provide it. There is a crying need for the state wild life department to be divorced from politics and placed on a commission basis.

Otherwise, all the good work that is being started will simply be torn down, chances are, in later administrations. A thing as big as wild life in a state conceded to have the finest natural resources of any of the 48 states has no right to be treated as a political football—and especially when it's the people's money that pays the freight.

It is to be sincerely hoped if and when the legislature meets in extra session that the wild life situation will be considered. Conservatively speaking, there are at least 250,000 people interested in hunting and fishing in the state—and a matter this big deserves thoughtful and considerate attention.

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE.

Mr. Press Huddleston was around yesterday receiving congratulations on the occasion of his 70th birthday. It is really difficult to believe he is that old.

Press came to work on The Constitution in 1885. That was the year Henry Grady was president of the Southern league in its inaugural year. Off and on, Press Huddleston has worked on The Constitution for nearly 55 years. He was born in '69.

He remembers the old players of '85—rattles them off just like that—Dummy Duncon, pitcher; Mappes, catcher; Cub Stricker, second base; Monk Cline, shortstop; Blondy Purcell, left field; Lynch, first base; Deny Lyons, third base, etc.

Press says he doesn't feel a day over 50 and, so help me, he doesn't look it, either. The man must have a fountain of youth cached somewhere.

Ferdinand's Corner: Change of scenery worked wonders for Johnny Gill, who failed in his last two attempts in the Southern league with Chattanooga and Nashville. . . . Gill is hitting .327 for Baltimore. . . . Incidentally, Murray Howell is leading the International league in hitting with a neat percentage of .359. . . . Howell also plays for Baltimore. . . . ## 206 WILL ENTER WOMEN'S MEET

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(P)—The 43d women's national amateur golf tournament next Monday will have a choice assortment of threeesomes to divide their attention, pairings announced today by U. S. G. A. indicated.

The meet, to be held at the Wee Burn Club, Noroton, Conn., and to continue through August 26, has drawn a record entry of 206 players, but missing will be the No. 1 attraction, Patty Berg will be unable to defend her title because of a recent appendix operation.

Starting at 6:30 a. m. (eastern standard time), the contestants, in groups of three, will tee off at seven-minute intervals until 2:26 p. m.

The qualifying round will slice the field to 64 for the match play starting next Tuesday.

Several of the leading contenders are grouped in the mid-morning threeesomes. One such trio consists of Pam Barton, leading English threat, Elizabeth Hicks, of Long Beach, Cal., and Betty Johnson, of San Antonio.

Another finds Beatrice Barrett, of Minnetonka Beach, Minn.; Maureen Orcutt, of Hawthorn, N. J.; and Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., bracketed together.

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page Jr., of Greensboro, N. C., favored by many to succeed Miss Berg as champion, has as partners the ever-dangerous Marion E. Miley, of Lexington, Ky., and Evelyn Marvin, entered from Rio de Janeiro.

EVERETT WINNER IN LEFTIES GOLF

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Aug. 15.—(P)—Respected Bill Guynes, of Fountain City, Tenn., got downright serious about his golf game today and stepped smack into a favorite's role for the national left-handed championship.

Guynes, bright and chipper despite a night of conviviality, won his first two matches to march into tomorrow's quarter-finals at the Birmingham Golf Club in the fourth annual porters' tournament.

First Guynes, tourney medalist, whipped W. F. McKelvey, Sparta, Ill., 4 and 2, although blowing himself to an 11-over-par 83.

In the afternoon he shot a 74 to win from Al Johannes, South Bend, Ind., 4 and 2.

Developments indicated Art Thorne, of Detroit, and Al Everett, Rome, Ga., would be Guynes' chief challengers. Thorne, 1937 champion, defeated R. F. Koopman, Chicago, 3 and 1, and eliminated Alex Antonio, Linden, N. J., defending champion, 3 and 2.

Everett shot a 73 in defeating Henry Goebel, Rochester, N. Y., 3 and 2, and trimmed Lou LaVine, Detroit, 7 and 5.

'Lay Off Christmas,' Santa Advises F.D.R.

SEATTLE, Aug. 15.—(P)—The Seattle Times in a sports page symposium on President Roosevelt's plan changing the date of Thanksgiving, quoted San'a Claus as saying: "Tell that guy off Christmas. I'm booked up solid now."

College athletic directors and football coaches shook puzzled heads tonight and opined that maybe they should have sent their 1939 football schedules to President Roosevelt for approval.

The President's plan to change Thanksgiving Day from November 30 to November 23 has raised Old Nid with the grid p-o-grams of many schools, which had to arrange their schedules for the "climax" games were scheduled November 30, wit' an open date or comparatively easy game November 25, enabling them to rest up for the big encounter.

Leonard Hard To Hit--Harder To Hold--Harris

"Catchers All Banged Up," Says Bucky; Senators Have Won 10 of Last 14.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(P)—The Washington Senators are in sixth place, 26 games behind the New York Yankees. Yet, up to today, the Nats were all square with the New Yorkers in their games this season, and even Bucky Harris can't figure it out.

"We figure to lose every time we go against them," the Senator pilot mused. "It's just baseball, that's all. You never know."

Bucky, who recently went on record as saying the Yankees not only were fading, but were positively bleached right now, declined to elaborate on his statement today, giving the impression he already had spoken out of turn.

"I don't want to put myself on a spot," he said. "Let the Red Sox and Yankees fight it out."

He did admit, however, that his Senators might have a lot to say as to who would win the fight. The Nats, with 10 victories in their last 14 games, currently are pretty warm.

"I'll start Dutch Leonard tomorrow, and Joe Krakauskas Thursday," Bucky advised. "You know, Leonard has won four out of four from the Yankees this year."

Leonard is a former Brooklyn employee. The Dodgers shipped him to Atlanta in 1938, possibly to save wear and tear on the Brooklyn catchers. Leonard is a knuckle ball addict, and his delivery hops about like a nervous rabbit.

"It's harder to catch than it is to hit," Bucky admitted. "My catchers all have banged up hands from trying to hold him. The ball has absolutely no sense of direction."

The former boy wonder admitted his team is about where it should be, everything considered, but he believes the Nats might be in their first division right now had their fielding early in the campaign been a little more on the positive side.

DUCK HUNTING. TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 15.—(P)—Florida's 1939 duck hunting season will open November 15 and end December 29 in conformity with federal regulations to avoid the confusion that resulted last year when state law prohibited hunting before November 20.

ICKES' announcement asserts a reduction in the bag limit on geese was made on recommendation of the Biological Survey, which reported that geese did not appear to be in quite as satisfactory condition last winter as in the preceding season. There is no open season on snow geese and geese. Also throughout the country closed seasons are to continue on Ross' geese, wood ducks and swans.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(P)—The top of the National League public parks tennis championships was sheared off today by two comparative unknowns who eliminated the Los Angeles Stars, Willis Anderson, defending champion, and Julius Heldman, seeded second, in a pair of five-set encounters.

POFFY ON BLACK LIST. BROOKLYN, Aug. 15.—(P)—At the request of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Elwood Cletus (Boots) Poffenberger has been declared ineligible by Commissioner K. M. Landis and placed on the blacklist of organized baseball.

The eccentric pitcher, whose many escapades have formed a bizarre part of current baseball folklore, deserted the Dodgers in Cincinnati on May 23, and after being ordered to report to Montreal, failed to do so.

He cost the Brooklyn team $25,000 this spring. The Brooklyn club had an opportunity to sell Poffenberger and recoup some of the loss in purchasing him from Detroit, but officials said they felt his conduct was detrimental to the best interests of baseball and asked Landis for the ruling.

Only 1 Game Played; Double Bill Tonight

Atlanta Bats Blast Out 16 Hits; Paul Richards Gets Four for Four.

By JACK TROY. Playing the role of giant killers, the Crackers last night assailed Ed Heusser and drove the Chicks to cover as they captured the second straight game in the series by a score of 9 to 4.

Afternoon rain curtailed the program, only one game being played instead of the scheduled two. A double-header is billed for tonight at 7:45, ending the four-game series. Carl Doyle and Herman (Aunt) Besse are scheduled to pitch for the Chicks, opposing Luman Harris and Onnie Robinson.

Last night's victory cut the Chick lead to six and one-half games over the Crackers and six games over Nashville and Chattanooga and was featured by the hearty slugging of the fourth-place Crackers, who collected six extra-base hits in a 16-hit attack.

The Chicks were ahead only once in the first inning. They scored a run in the first inning. The Crackers came back with two and again scored two in the second. They tossed a five-spot at Heusser.

QUIST-BROMWICH PRESSED TO WIN 2D ROUND MATCH Mako-Tidball Cop; Bobbitt and Guernsey Beat Philipines.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 15.—(P)—The die-hards in the United States Lawn Tennis Association family gained new courage today as they compared the return from their possible United States Davis cup doubles combinations against the performances of Australia's reputedly invincible Adrian Quist and two-titled Jack Bromwich in the second round national doubles matches at Longwood.

Quist and Bromwich gained the third round, but they were more than a bit extended by unseeded Jack Kramer and Welby Van Vorn, the promising Los Angeles youngsters, in winning, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Frankie Parker, of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, top-ranked here, waded through Dave Freeman, of Pasadena, Cal., and Ted Schroeder, of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-3, 9-7. Second-seeded Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, and Elwood Cooke, of Portland, Ore., Wimbledon titlists, took such sturdy opponents as Norman Bickel and John Shustrom, of Chicago, in stride, 6-2, 6-4, 8-6.

And Gene Mako, the Davis cup doubles veteran, now reunited with his winter west coast partner, Jack Tidball, also of Los Angeles, overcame More Lewis, the Kenyon, Ohio, collegian, and Al Stitt, of Boston, in another straight-set, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

The Philippine Davis cuppers, Felicissimo Ampon and Amada Sanchez, surrendered to Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, and Frank Guernsey, of Orlando, Fla., the intercollegiate singles champion, 8-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

Jack Crawford and Harry Hopman, of Australia, struggled through Bob Kamrath, of Austin, Texas, and Darrell Hudlow, of Phoenix, Ariz., into the round of eight, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

In the women's section of the tourney all of the six teams to reach the third round were seeded. Among the day's victors were Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabry, of Brookline, the defending champions; the second-seeded Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., and Dorothy Workman, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Dorothy Annus, of Stamford, Conn., and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France. Third-seeded Virginia Wolfenden and Patricia Canning, of San Francisco, qualified yesterday.

First Grid Player Dies at Flemington

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Aug. 15. (AP)—Former State Senator George H. Large, 88, last surviving player of the first intercollegiate football game in America, died today of arterio-sclerosis at his home here.

He was a member of the New Jersey bar since 1875, a state senator for four years, but proudest of all—he was one of the 25 side-whiskered Rutgers College youths who beat Princeton in 1869 in the first intercollegiate football game. His face was aglow with the pride of victory last November when he looked on from a seat of honor in Rutgers' new stadium at

New Brunswick and saw his alma mater defeat Princeton again, for the first time since he took part in the game that inaugurated the sport.

He went to Flemington that night after a big day to chide his two sons, Princeton graduates, about Rutgers' victory. The sons, former Common Pleas Judge George K. Large and Edwin K.

Helen Clarke Is Chosen To Teach At Ecole Normale in Mende, France

By Sally Forth.

THE many friends of Helen Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarke, join Sally today in congratulating the belle upon her recent selection as an American exchange student to France. Accompanied by sincere wishes for a bon voyage, Helen, who graduated last June from the University of Georgia, will sail September 19 from New York for Havre, where she will catch her first glimpse of foreign shores.

After a brief stay in Paris, the belle will journey to Mende, France, to begin her career October 9 as a teacher of English in Ecole Normale. Sally hears that the institution is equivalent to a high school in this country. Of course, Helen will be called upon to teach her pupils English by means of the French language, an undertaking certain to perfect her command of French.

The Franco-American assistantship was awarded the Atlanta belle by the Institute of International Education, noted agency selecting student teachers for schools of France and Italy. Recipients of fellowships and assistantships are nominated by the institute's representatives in various foreign countries. They are required to file credentials signifying their qualifications for the posts they seek, and must submit the recommendations of three professors under whom they have studied.

A high light of Helen's extensive sojourn abroad will be several trips to be made during her vacations, occurring after each trimester of school. Ten days will be allotted at the Christmas season and two weeks at Easter. Atlanta and Georgia will be well represented in France this year, for Clara Morrison, of this city, and Andrew Lyndon III, of Macon, were also selected to teach abroad. Clara, a former student of Agnes Scott College, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thad Morrison. Her post will be in Lyons, France. Andrew, a former classmate of Helen's at the state university, has been assigned to teach at the University of Paris in Paris, France.

SHOULD lovely Anne Suttles decide to make her debut this winter she will be a charming addition to Atlanta's 1939-40 Debutante Club, for the attractive belle possesses beauty, a magnetic personality and a gracious dignity. Anne, you know, is the daughter of Mrs. J. B. Suttles and the late Mr. Suttles, whose families belong to Atlanta's pioneers. Mrs. Suttles was before her marriage Natalie Ragsdale, daughter of Mrs. L. N. Ragsdale and the late Mayor Ragsdale, who served as chief executive of this city for eight years.

After their marriage 21 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Suttles resided in St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., where Anne was educated. In the former city she attended the John Burroughs Country Day school and later she was graduated from the French convent, Notre Dame de Sion, in Kansas City. Following her graduation Anne traveled extensively in Europe and she has enjoyed wide travel in this country.

For the past year Anne and her mother have resided in Atlanta, where the former has become a favorite with her mother's lifelong friends. She has also made many friends with Atlanta's younger contingent and was a popular figure last year attending Washington Seminary, where she took a post-graduate course.

WHEN the 70 boys and girls who have enjoyed an extensive motor camping tour through the west for the past two months arrive in Atlanta on Saturday, they will not bid adieu to fellow campers, as the group will meet for a reunion on Monday.

Betty Hurt, one of the youthful travelers, has invited the entire crowd for a picnic supper Monday evening at the country home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Hurt, in Marietta.

The boys and girls will motor up early in the afternoon to enjoy swimming and boating on the picturesque lake. Following an afternoon of play, they will be

Newspaper Advertising Helps Keep You Healthy!

Where did you first hear of the tooth paste that keeps your teeth bright and sparkling? Where did you first learn the name of the mouth wash that keeps your breath sweet and clean, the tablets that banish headache, the remedy that eases baby's cough? Of course, it was by reading an advertisement!

Advertising has helped to dispel the ignorance that depended on amber beads, copper wire and asafetida bags. Advertising informed all America that there were better, surer, safer roads to health.

Especially newspaper advertising! Newspaper advertising not only tells you what to buy—it tells you where to buy it at the biggest money-saving. Newspaper advertising lets you stay healthier throughout the year at far less expense. Newspaper advertising has helped keep your druggist in business, ready to serve you in any emergency.

Before you buy—read the ads of your favorite drug store in this newspaper... The Constitution leads all other Atlanta newspapers in drug store advertising.

Delaroque Makes It Possible for Bill To Get Job That Takes Him Far Inland

By GERTRUDE GELBIN.

SYNOPSIS. While traveling thru the Orient, Bill Carey meets Manon de Vargnes, beautiful French half-caste in Saigon. There half-castes are social outcasts. Pierre Delaroque, richest and most powerful man in Indo-China is really in love with Manon. Rather than an illicit affair with Pierre, Manon decides to return inland to her mother's tribe and marry Kim Kahoum, Oriental potentate. But Bill falls in love with Manon, and she with him. He follows her inland, and asks her to marry him. They return joyously to Saigon to be married by the French priest at the mission. As Manon dresses for her wedding at the home of Nina, her friend, Pierre Delaroque appears unexpectedly. He tells her he cannot live without her and asks her to marry him. Because he is rich and powerful enough to prevent her wedding to Bill, Manon promises to marry him the next day. Delaroque is beside himself with joy. He leaves her to arrange for a week of festivities in his honor. Nina and Manon set out for the mission. Now go on with the story:

INSTALLMENT VII. The days wore on, bringing with them the hopeless tangle of consulates, the cabaret office, and the shops and business places where Bill endlessly and unsuccessfully sought employment.

One night, as Manon waited for him to come home, Nina dropped in to see her. Manon was laying the table for their meagre supper. "You love him very much, Manon?" Nina asked kindly. "Yes, Nina. Very much."

Her friend's eyes filled with tears. "You must do something, Manon. I saw Bill yesterday asking to be a waiter. And Louis tells me he was looking for work on a boat—to load the boat."

"Yes," I heard, Manon answered quietly. "In a little while it will be worse," warned Nina.

"There was a painful silence between them. "Manon—I have something to tell you—Louis heard it at the government house—"

"Heard what?" Manon asked sharply. "About the passport—why it is forbidden—Delaroque told the commandant lies about you—and—that's how it is—"

"Yes," sighed Manon. "Delaroque did it. I know."

There was another moment of silence. "Manon," whispered Nina. "Delaroque could help you and Bill—he would—if—"

"Yes," interrupted Manon, her face expressionless. "I have thought of that. The American consul has a ticket for you on the boat. Maybe if you went to Paris by yourself you could meet the officials and all your friends—and then it would be easy for you to send for me."

"What made Nina scurry off like that?" he asked, and forgot his question promptly in his delight at watching Manon prepare their supper. "Well," he said as he sat down at the table, "I had a big day today. I dropped in at the English Club and won five bucks at cribbage. I had to cheat a little—but not much—"

He reached for the bottle of rum. "Have one?" he asked. She shook her head.

"Bill," she said as she sat down, "I have been thinking of something. The American consul has a ticket for you on the boat. Maybe if you went to Paris by yourself you could meet the officials and all your friends—and then it would be easy for you to send for me."

"You've been thinking that, eh?" She nodded, her eyes large with unshed tears.

"A plot to get rid of me, eh?" "But darling," she pleaded. "You can't stay in Saigon forever—"

"Forever and two days—with you," he grinned.

"Like this?" she asked, her voice breaking as she pointed to the poverty-stricken room.

"Like this and 20 times worse." He took her hand in both of his. "Do you love me?"

"Oh, darling!" "More every minute? As much as you can?"

"Yes," she breathed. "All of me." "Then pass the stew and relax," he grinned.

He reached for the bottle once more. She watched him desperately as he filled his glass. And when he had downed that one, he poured out still another. Until, at length, he smiled at her through a woozy haze.

"Why don't you lie down, darling?" she said gently. He suffered her to help him from his chair and lead him to the couch. He all but missed it as he flopped down upon it. She stretched his legs out and took his shoes off. There were holes in his socks. She removed his coat. The sleeve lining dangled foolishly from the cuff.

"I must fix that—," she murmured. "I must buy needles and thread—"

He smiled up at her through his drunken fog. As she bent down over him, he reached up and pulling her face to his, kissed her. "Eyes like birds flying away," he murmured, and fell asleep.

She stood silently beside him for a moment, her tears falling down her cheeks. Then, turning sharply, she ran to the closet and took out her one remaining fine gown and hat. With trembling hands she prepared her toilette and donned her finery.

She paused for a last, heart-breaking glance at Bill lying asleep on the bed. Then, setting her face in a grim smile, she hurried out of the room.

Pierre Delaroque sat in the sumptuous library of his elegant mansion, sipping coffee. A native servant entered quietly and murmured discreetly that Monsieur had a visitor—the half-caste, Manon.

Delaroque continued to sip his coffee. The servant waited. "What shall I tell her, M'sieur?"

"Bring her in here," the master decided. The native bowed his way out. In another moment Manon stood at the door, smiling in at Delaroque. She was beautifully dressed, poised, and a faint smile hovered about her lips.

"Pierre," she greeted quietly. He rose from his chair and advanced toward her, moved by her beauty despite his hate. "Manon! How nice of you to visit me again!"

"You are alone, Pierre?" she smiled. He nodded. "Every night I sit as you see me—lonely amid too many possessions—and I think of you a great deal—of when you will come into this room again and stand before me as now." He led her gently into the light. "Let me see if you have lost any of your loveliness—his eyes burned into her. "No," he whispered. "It is the same Manon—only a little sadder—"

"You are not angry with me, still?" she smiled. "Whatever I have felt, Manon, I do not feel now when I look at you. How can one be angry at a woman whose only crime is that her beauty cannot belong to everyone—however worthy." He pointed to the couch. "Sit down, my dear."

"I have come to see you about something, Pierre," she said slowly as she took the seat he indicated.

Delaroque was instantly by her side. "I know why you have come, Manon. We will talk about it in a little while. First let me go down to the happiness of your presence."

He took her hand and smiled into her eyes. Her answering smile was soft and unresisting. "You have haunted me, Manon. Night after night. Let me see now for a moment if you are real—"

He crushed her in his arms and she suffered him to kiss her. The next morning when Bill awoke, he saw that Manon was still asleep. He rose and tipped out of the room to shave. When he returned, Manon opened her eyes.

"Oh," he greeted. "You're up—I missed you." "Nina came for me last night," she explained quickly. "Her baby was sick."

Bill sat down beside her. "Know what I think?" he demanded suddenly. "I think I'm drinking too much."

She took his hand and put it to her cheek. "Bill," she said softly. "What?"

"Bill, I heard something last night from a friend of Nina's. You know, Louis the corporal."

"And what did you hear?" he teased. "That they need somebody at the Saigon Rubber Company."

"Need somebody?" he asked, instantly alert. "For what?"

"For work, Bill."

"That's what Corporal Louis said, huh?"

She nodded. "How does that ape know about it?"

Bill demanded, his brows knitting. Manon shrugged. "He hears all kinds of things. I thought maybe you might go there and ask—"

Bill was instantly on his feet. "Saigon Rubber Company—that's the big white building, isn't it?" He heaved a sigh. "Okay, honey. I'll have a shot at it. Where's that shirt I've been saving up—the one with the buttons—"

A sudden terror clutched at Manon's heart. "Bill—it's so hot outside—maybe you ought not to go today—"

He interrupted her with a tender kiss. "Don't you worry. I'll be back quick enough. These inquiries take about two minutes flat."

She held his hand fast in both of hers as if to keep him from going. "I think you're wasting your time," she faltered. "It's foolish—really. I'm not sure Louis knows anything—"

"You don't want me to go and ask once? Just for luck?" he grinned.

"No, Bill. I shouldn't have told you—," she threw her arms about him.

"I see," he said gently. "You're afraid of my being disappointed."

He disengaged himself from her embrace. "Listen, darling, there's one thing I've learned to do and do well. That's how to take no for an answer."

Much to his surprise, Bill found it possible to secure an immediate interview with the Saigon Rubber Company.

"I've heard there's an opening here," Bill said.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.
ATLANTA, Aug. 15.—Spot cotton closed steady, middling 9.50.

AVERAGE PRICE.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(P)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was unchanged at 8.95 cents a pound. The average for the past 30 market days was 9.27 cents a pound. (Yesterday's average at 10 markets was 8.96 cents a pound instead of 8.93 at nine markets.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(P)—Early gains in the cotton futures market running to around 50 cents a bale were chopped down later today, but at the finish, prices were still on a firm footing. The closing range was unchanged to 2 points higher.

Buying came principally in the form of price fixing in near-by deliveries, plus Bombay and Liverpool support in later positions. Heavy rains in Alabama, regarded as distinctly unfavorable, attracted covering.

As demand persisted, contracts became scarce and the market moved up. Profit-taking and renewed hedging, however, trimmed top marks.

Trading in the new contract was inaugurated today, but traders seemed to be content to feel out the price differences. Spreads between the old and new were around 15 points most of the day, which were disappointing to many observers. It was anticipated a broader trade would widen the breach.

Exports today 11,570 bales; season so far 97,764. Port receipts 17,037; port stocks 1,992,948.

COTTON PRICES RISE, BUT RATES LATER.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(P) Cotton futures advanced moderately here today, but reacted in late dealing with closing prices on old contracts steady two points higher to one point lower. New contracts were comparatively quiet with nominal close.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(P)—Wheat prices reached the best level in about two weeks today, but then backed down below yesterday's close.

The day's price range was only about a cent a bushel, which illustrated the narrow character of the market. Nervous fluctuations in quotations, reflecting comparatively minor transactions, resulted from the small interest in gains.

Part of the late weakness in wheat was in sympathy with a decline in corn, which some traders attributed to signs of increased offerings from the country and to uncertainty growing out of various reports concerning the handling of corn which will be defaulted on 1938 loans.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.
ATLANTA, Aug. 15.—Spot cotton closed steady, middling 9.50.

AVERAGE PRICE.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(P)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was unchanged at 8.95 cents a pound. The average for the past 30 market days was 9.27 cents a pound. (Yesterday's average at 10 markets was 8.96 cents a pound instead of 8.93 at nine markets.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—(P)—Early gains in the cotton futures market running to around 50 cents a bale were chopped down later today, but at the finish, prices were still on a firm footing. The closing range was unchanged to 2 points higher.

Buying came principally in the form of price fixing in near-by deliveries, plus Bombay and Liverpool support in later positions. Heavy rains in Alabama, regarded as distinctly unfavorable, attracted covering.

As demand persisted, contracts became scarce and the market moved up. Profit-taking and renewed hedging, however, trimmed top marks.

Trading in the new contract was inaugurated today, but traders seemed to be content to feel out the price differences. Spreads between the old and new were around 15 points most of the day, which were disappointing to many observers. It was anticipated a broader trade would widen the breach.

Exports today 11,570 bales; season so far 97,764. Port receipts 17,037; port stocks 1,992,948.

COTTON PRICES RISE, BUT RATES LATER.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—(P) Cotton futures advanced moderately here today, but reacted in late dealing with closing prices on old contracts steady two points higher to one point lower. New contracts were comparatively quiet with nominal close.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—(P)—Wheat prices reached the best level in about two weeks today, but then backed down below yesterday's close.

The day's price range was only about a cent a bushel, which illustrated the narrow character of the market. Nervous fluctuations in quotations, reflecting comparatively minor transactions, resulted from the small interest in gains.

Part of the late weakness in wheat was in sympathy with a decline in corn, which some traders attributed to signs of increased offerings from the country and to uncertainty growing out of various reports concerning the handling of corn which will be defaulted on 1938 loans.

LONDON WOMEN BOOB TYRONE; 18 INJURED IN RUSH

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(UP)—The lounge of the Strand movie picture theater tonight was converted into an emergency first-aid station for 18 persons injured in a melee resulting from the efforts of Actor Tyrone Power to slip unnoticed into the theater.

In addition to the 18 injured, scores of handbag mirrors were smashed and coats were ripped when the crowd of women broke through a police cordon, shrieking "Isn't he marvelous!"

Power, arriving for a personal appearance in connection with the showing of the picture, "Jesse James," was mobbed by the women, some of whom shouted: "Just one big heart-throb!"

They snatched buttons from his jacket until police rescued him. When he entered the theater 12 pretty girls attendants waiting to seat him were swept off their feet by another mob of women.

One of the women grabbed Power by the collar and compelled him to shake hands with three young girls, who, she said, had waited 12 hours to meet him.

When he left the theater, he wore the disguise of a chauffeur's overcoat and dark glasses.

'DEFINITE' CLUES SPIRIT WRECK PROBE

Federal Investigators Take Over Command of Rail Tragedy Inquiry.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Federal officers today took over investigation of the wreck of the streamlined train "City of San Francisco," and direction of the search for the maniac who, trainmen say, deliberately derailed the train, killing 23 persons and injuring 100.

The search was spurred by clues toward the identity of the man, or men, who moved a rail and thus hurled the 17-car train into a Nevada canyon Saturday night.

"We have some definite evidence," said A. D. McDonald, president of the Southern Pacific Company, who took charge of the railroad investigation, "but it is of such a nature that we do not feel free to divulge it at this time."

An unrevealed number of men were picked up in railway yards and "hobo jungles."
